Vern Thelen celebrates a half century of the business he started at 13, which bonds a community and a family

By KENNETH PATCHEN

Thelen Sand and Gravel knows how to hold things together. The business has bonded a family and a community for more than half a century.

The sense of stewardship can be seen in their business operation on the Lake and McHenry County border on Route 173.

It is evident when Steve Thelen is at the Thursday noon Antioch Rotary Club meeting.

It shows up on the last sign a Thelen driver sees before he leaves the quarry and enters the highway. Being a solid member of the community goes all the way back to the firm's founder.

"My dad started this when he was 13 with a horse and wagon," Jack Thelen said. Vern Thelen used the family's farming equipment to deliver stone and sand for driveways and homes in the area.

Gravel trucks after the war put Vern Thelen out of business.

By December, 1947, however, Vern Thelen had $3,400, enough to buy a 5-yard Dodge dump truck. He was back in business and in 1948, he added a J. I Case shovel plow tractor to his operation. In 1949 he added a dredge.

By 1951, Vern Thelen was buy-

Friends aid cancer stricken father

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Organizers of a fund-raising benefit for Antioch postal carrier Jody Pilcher have 22 days remaining. They are using the time to assemble a collection of raffle and auction items to help Pilcher meet medical expenses of about $105,000.

They have the Antioch Moose Hall west of the village on Route 173 reserved from noon to "whenever" for the benefit on Sunday, May 31.

They have food donations from the National Association of Letter Carriers.

They have some entertainment lined up.

They have some initial raffle and auction donations.

They have their publicity appearing all over town on bulletin boards.

What they do not have is a new liver for 10-year Antioch postal carrier and military veteran Jody Pilcher, 39, and they do not have his colon cancer in remission.

"Right now he is in chemotherapy to get it into remission," said Frank L. Schultz Jr. He is a friend and retired postal worker who is working with others to put together a major fund-raising benefit to meet some of the medical bills.

The mathematics is as stark as the diagnosis for his friend. Schultz said that Pilcher, the father of three children, has inoperable colon cancer that has spread to his liver. The liver transplant is $317,000 of which $212,000 is covered by insurance. There is $105,000 that has to be found somewhere else.

"They will not do the operation until he has the bulk of the money," said Schultz.

To raise the money, the Moose Lodge and U.S. Postal Service employees are trying to find good quality auction items to attract bidders to raise some serious money. For example, they have a donated Cashmere coat. It is on a hanger.

"It's a beautiful, lady's coat," Schultz said. "White."

"The hanger it is hanging on probably cost more than some of my sweaters," he said.

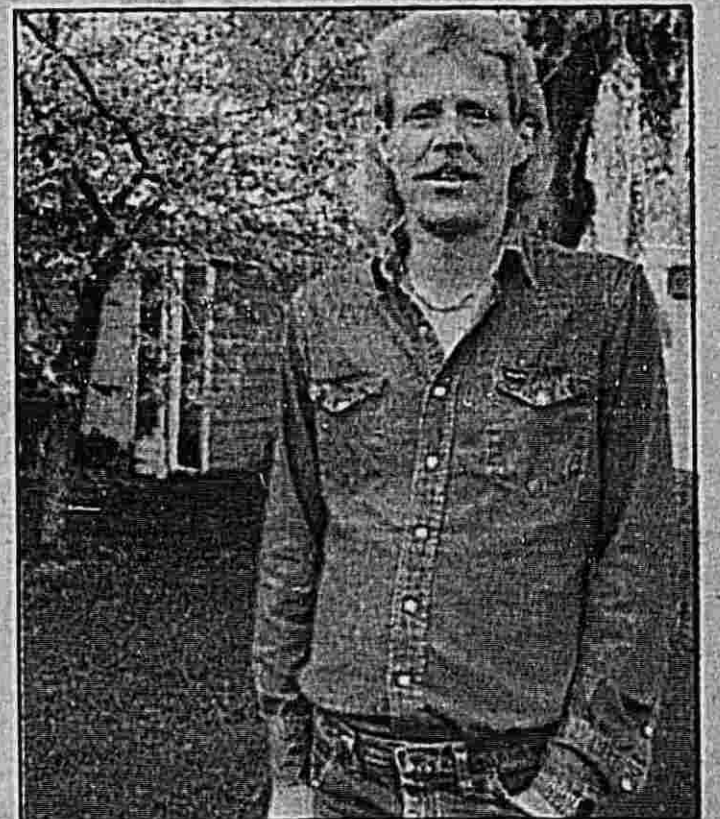

"Everyone at the post office is involved," he said. "All the women of the Moose are helping us. It's an outpouring from everybody that is helping us out."

The discovery of the cancer was recent. "He found out just about a month ago," Schultz said. He said that Pilcher is known as a generous person himself.

"You ask him for a quarter, he'll give you a buck. He's just that kind of guy."

Schultz invites people to contact him to discuss donations and other ideas for the raffle and the auction. Schultz can be called at 847-395-6142.

Other people who are helping put the benefit together are Todd Erikson, Leta Sathoff, and Patti Bentell.

Brook memorial rocks hint at history

5,000 pound boulders carried to Antioch by glaciers

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Village officials have established two berms along the walkway of the future entrance of the William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center.

The berms are on either side of the entrance to the proposed walkway that will encircle the wetland sanctuary. They are approximately 5-foot high mounds of dirt and about 20-feet long. Large boulders were placed on the berms.

"These are not rocks that were formed here," said Jack Thelen, of Thelen Sand and Gravel. "These have all been brought down here by the glaciers."

According to Claude LeMere, village community development director, the rocks were collected by the Herman Family over a period of 60 years as they farmed fields west of Antioch along North Avenue and Tiffany Road.

The rocks now allude to the glacial-based geological history of the Antioch landscape.

ier-based geological history of the Antioch landscape.

"These all came down from different parts of the country," Thelen said. "These are rocks that were formed in Minnesota, Canada, Wisconsin, Michigan."

Rocks vary tremendously according to the material they are made of," Thelen said. "The vast majority of the rocks here—the blacks, the pinks, the grays—are a granite-type rock which is basically formed with volcanic heating of the material."

"Some of the rocks here are sedimentary rocks formed underneath the ocean by fossils or mud or other things," he said. "Water would compress the material."

One rock near the southwest end of the berm area is a conglomerate-type rock. At one time it was a clay or sand mixture with some other stones in it. This mixture was moved into an area where it would have been placed under high pressure and, possibly, re-heated to form a new rock.

"At one time, this area and the area immediately east of the Antioch area was all part of Lake Michigan," Thelen said. Glaciers moved sand, gravel, stones and other material west of Antioch and the Fox River. After the glaciers, clays were deposited by the waters of what is now known as Lake Michigan.

The placement of the rocks in the berm area is consistent with the educational mission set forth by Village of Antioch officials for the Brook Memorial wetland sanctuary area. Eventually the rocks will be cleaned and sealed to highlight their differences among one another, according to LeMere.

It is unlikely the rocks will be taken.

"There are several here that are definitely in the 5,000 plus [pounds] weight [range]," Thelen said.

Village work on the entrance was started April 23 as part of the Village of Antioch Arbor Day celebration.

THELEN: Company bonds family community

ing equipment that was new to the area and the industry. He brought the first hydraulic crawler loader to the sand and gravel business when other operations were cable operated.

Brother Ray Thelen joined the business in 1954, after selling the dairy herd.

Today, Thelen Sand and Gravel is a 50-year old business with 180 employees and more than 300 pieces of powered equipment. This mix of human and equipment resources permits the company to fully explore the possibilities of the natural resources under 2,600 acres of Illinois and Wisconsin land that they own.

"We've got 200 different concrete mixes at this place," said Jack Thelen. He can provide a concrete mix to hold a fence post, to make an interstate highway, or to build a high-rise building. Thelen Sand and Gravel will deliver it anywhere in Lake and McHenry Counties in Illinois and Walworth and Kenosha Counties in Wisconsin. It is a regional business based in Antioch.

One source of strength for the firm is the fact that they can provide very specialized materials for their customers.

"We produce a special bunker sand for golf courses," Jack Thelen said. He said that they have a special sand for the greens and tee areas of a course. They also have a special filtering sand for sewer systems.

"All of this is customized," he said. "We will take the extra step it takes to make customized mixes and, sometimes, that's two or three steps to get the right material."

"We also do the standard sands and stones that everyone else produces."

The company is more than a provider of stone, sand, and gravel. Thelen has 1,000 acres of farmland growing corn. The firm's excavating department will build driveways, subdivision roads, and highways. The concrete Redi-Mix division provides concrete. They do composting with leaves and grass clippings, and they have a small nursery.

They also do community work.

Vern Thelen is a founder of the Antioch Rotary Club, an organization that has provided a constant stream of scholarship aid to the children of the community. For example, figures show that the members of Antioch Rotary Club will award $20,000 in scholarship money this year alone for students going to college. Thelen family members remain quite active in both the local Rotary club and also visit chapters throughout the United States.

The family has been a major supporter of St. Peter Church and its fund-raising efforts with Footlights. Steve Thelen serves as a director of the Lakes Region Youth Baseball Committee. The family provides support in a variety of personal and financial ways to many organizations and community activities.

Thelen is very much involved with youth athletic scholarships for most of the local communities around their business operations. They serve on Chambers of Commerce and Industry. The company makes contributions to auctions of community organizations.

Other aspects of being a good neighbor are less evident. Thelen has an active program to purchase the land of neighbors to their sand and gravel operations. This allows them to create a buffer zone between their business and people who live nearby.

"It creates a better environment for our neighbors," Jack Thelen said. "It also lets us be our own neighbors." Sound and dust impacts are minimized for people who live near the quarries.

"We try to be as good a neighbor as we can be," Jack Thelen said.

They also try to be as good and competitive a business as they can be. The company has moved itself into innovative products and services. Stamped concrete and compost illustrate this.

Jack Thelen said that concrete stamping has been used in California and Florida, such as at Disney World and Universal Studios, for more than 20 years. People see it when they travel to those areas and want to use stamped concrete here in the northern Illinois area.

"It looks like rocks, stones, and bricks on all of their passageways and walkways," Thelen said. Actually, it is stamped concrete. It is a more natural and earth-appealing surface than just plain concrete. Thelen said that it can be used on buildings and also in residential construction. It can be used successfully in landscaping and for home entrances.

"Locally, people want the better appearance," he said. Thelen will work with people on such innovative designs and can supply the names of contractors who can do good work with stamped concrete.

Thelen Sand and Gravel has been composting for two years. It is a product for someone with a pick-up truck or a major landscaper who wants a better material than just topsoil.

"We take leaves brought into us," Jack Thelen said. Thelen places the materials in windrows and monitors them for heat, moisture, and decomposition.

"It creates materials we can use in our own reclamation plans," Jack Thelen said.

"We do a lot of recycling," he said that the business is very much an environmental business. They provide filtering sands for sewage treatment plants, work with erosion control methods, help with landscaping, and they use compost for the quick growth of grasses to control erosion.

"We recycle concrete and asphalt," he said. New roads and sidewalks are created from old materials so they do not go into landfills. "It also saves our resources."

Dying too young

DUI Project '98 shows kids the consequences

By LIZ THOMSEN
Staff Reporter

He felt good. He had just made a new friend at school. He was looking forward to a movie with her on Friday.

As he waited for the light to change, his hands tapped the steering wheel in time to the music.

Suddenly he heard the groan of brakes. He glanced up and the car was there, moving slowly, almost gracefully toward his Mustang. He heard the high, pure notes of the song over the grinding of metal on metal; then, nothing.

Only 17-years-old, he died on that road the evening of March 16 as he drove through a green light.

He died on the corner of 33rd and Lewis Road at the hands of a drunk driver whose blood alcohol level was in the area of three times the legal limit. He died of massive head injuries when the other car slammed into his driver's side like a battering ram just a block from his house.

"If I could just change one thing, I would go back and change the time he was waiting at that light," said Suzette Colon, mother of the 17-year-olds friend.

Every week in more populated areas, paramedics and firemen cut teenagers and adults alike from the crumpled metal mass that used to be their car. According to Newport Fire Department personnel, more than half the car wrecks they respond to are alcohol related.

Newport Fire Department Chief Bill Beetschen is on a mission to change this.

With over 15 months of planning, and timing it perfectly the week before prom, Beetschen, Zion Benton Township High School and four other local fire departments hosted DUI Project '98, The Ultimate Awareness.

The demonstration brought in to graphic relief what happens after a multi-vehicle drunk driving accident with injuries, fatalities and all.

Colon's eyes filled with tears as she and her daughter watched the scene.

"He was such a good kid. He was a really good boy," she said. Colon's family is one of many who feel the actions of a drunk driver up close and personal.

"It's not just don't drink and drive, our message is you can't drink and drive," said Deputy Chief Beetschen.

With this message he hopes to give a grim and shocking wake up call to teenagers and adults seemingly desensitized to violence in this media-driven society, as he puts it.

"There doesn't seem to be a great effect of talking. We don't want you to learn first hand, for real," said Beetschen, addressing the crowd.

More than 750 people were bused to an isolated area on Kelley Road west of Hunt Club in order to witness the realistic enactment.

'Don't get into the car with anyone else who has been drinking, even if it's just a sip'

Jennifer Duff
paramedic trainee

People spoke in subdued voices as they were driven past the county coroner's truck on the property of Tempel Farms off of Wadsworth Road. They seemed to know they were about to witness something serious.

There were many dads and moms who had brought their teenage sons and daughters to see the event.

Four friends, sophomores from Antioch Fire Department Lieutenant Tony Brisinte and Assistant Chief Bob Johnson talk with Bob's daughter Noreen Johnson, 18, of Antioch and Heather Ellett, of Lake Villa near the close of the DUI Project '98 drunk driving accident re-enactment near Mill Creek. Bob Johnson said that the Antioch Fire Department participated by responding to a request for mutual aid to extricate a "victim" from a vehicle. He added that, "It's sad to say, but this re-enactment is true-to-life." —Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom.

Zion-Benton high school, linked arms as they winced at the blood and flashing lights and the rescue workers. Many of the injured people waited 20 minutes in the crushed vehicles as rescue workers struggled to remove them without causing anymore injury.

One fire fighter pointed out that which situation in the multi-vehicle accident is the most critical and go from there.

"In high speed accidents cars are engineered to crumple," said Lt. Nishan Paparigian of Newport Fire Department. "If the victim is wearing his seat belt and the air bags engage, then it's just a matter of removing the car from the patient."

Paparigian has been with the fire department for 12 years in the relatively rural area of Newport township.

"Once a month I've seen this," he said, pointing at rescue workers cutting a girl in an evening dress from an economy car, smashed like a recycled can.

Terri McCutcheon, 16, of Gurnee and Kristin Schmidt, 16, of Wadsworth, looked on with Terri's father, Brent McCutcheon.

"It's kind of frightening that something like this could happen," said Kristin, a student at Warren Township High School. "A couple of girls at our school were killed over the summer on Hutchins Road."

As Quadrant One North fire fighters stood back from the scene, Lt. John Jansky moved in.

Jansky has been an accident investigator with the Lake County Sheriff's Department for 19 years. His job is to look at the cause and dynamics of the accident to determine impact speeds, whether people were restrained or not, and who was at fault.

This helps to build a case for the states attorney's office for prosecution.

People don't realize how many specialized jobs are performed by different trained people after an accident. Often nothing at the scene is disturbed until it is measured and explored in some way. Brent McCutcheon, Terri's father watched as a body bag was loaded into the coroner's truck.

When asked what was the most important thing he wanted his daughter to know as she received her learner's permit, McCutcheon said, "Life is fragile."

Younger kids were also in attendance at DUI '98. Many of them were the younger sister or brother of a rescue agency worker who wanted them to see first hand what their relatives see every week at their jobs.

Jennifer Duff, 21, is just finishing her training as a paramedic. She takes the state exam Monday night. She brought along her younger sister Kim, 13, from Winnetka, to witness the demonstration.

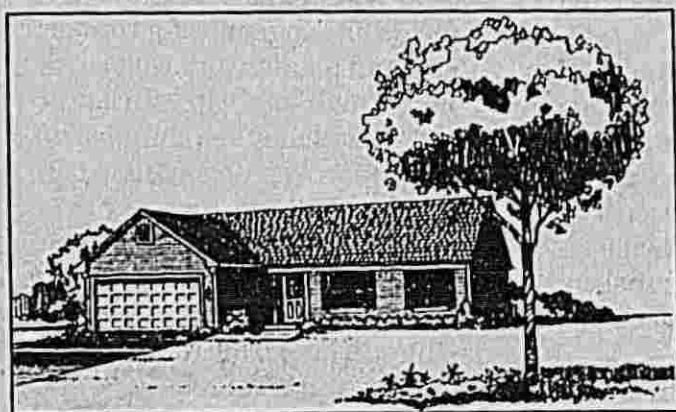

During her internship Duff lost her first patient to a drunk driver and it made a big impression.

"The first time I was in the ER I was in compressions and I lost a patient, and he was the sober driver," she said.

She wanted her sister to see how serious the situation was even though her driving days were a little ways off. Duff wants her sister to think hard when she gets in a vehicle with a friend who's been out partying.

"I would tell my sister, be wise," she said. "Don't get into the car with anyone else who has been drinking, even if it's just a sip."

'Zero tolerance' is Antioch gang policy

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Youth gang activity is a concern to Antioch police officers. They work to educate residents about local problems and to minimize opportunities for children to become involved in gang activity.

"Any community can be affected by a gang problem," said Sgt. Craig Somerville, supervisor of the Antioch department's patrol division and member of the Lake County Gang Task Force.

He spoke about local gang issues at a public meeting of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry on April 30. It was a breakfast meeting at the Antioch Community High School cafeteria and attracted business leaders and parents for the first of two presentations.

The second session about gang awareness will be May 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Antioch does not have a serious gang problem at this time, according to Somerville. However, gangs consider suburban communities good areas in which to recruit new members.

"We've made aggressive efforts to curb the problem," Somerville told the business group. "We will not tolerate it in this village."

"We have a zero tolerance approach," he said. This includes investigations of graffiti, patrols around the high school and fast food restaurants when school is over, and identification of youth who are at risk of becoming gang members.

The purpose of his presentation was to provide local adults with the tools to recognize gangs.

"Don't ever underestimate these hard core gang leaders," he said. Gang leaders are smart, but they apply it to the wrong purposes.

"Baggy pants does not make you a gang member," Somerville said. A turned around hat does not mean a person is in a gang. Instead, parents and adults need to recognize that there are personal associations, tattoos, and behavior that formally define a gang member. The State of Illinois has an official definition of a gang member which lists several criteria which may mean a person is a gang member.

"We do not want to tag a kid with a title," he said. The police are careful. He said that parents also should be careful in labeling children gang members.

Somerville described the two major families of gangs and the types of symbolism that represent each gang group. He illustrated his comments with slides of graffiti to explain what is being communicated and how to interpret some of it. Color, numbers, secret hand signs, words, and initials are some of the aspects of gang culture about which parents and community residents need to be informed.

Doodling in school notebooks is one access point for parents to determine what their children are learning.

"You really need to take a long look at that," Somerville said, especially if it matches up with known gang graffiti. Drawings and language in a context of gang culture and symbolism may reflect a child at risk or a gang member.

"Notebooks tell a lot," he said. Somerville said that residents who see graffiti should notify the Antioch Police Department about it immediately. Graffiti can lead to violence and it can provoke injuries to innocent children playing near it.

Police want to see graffiti before it is whitewashed or painted over to aid them with monitoring local gang activity.

"Please, within 24 hours it needs to be gone," he said. "It is my job to interpret it."

Rejuvenated Williams park pool to revive historic features

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

It's baaaaack.
Get ready for frozen Charleston Chew.

The 1998 summer swimming pool season at Williams Park will feature new ideas and resurrected services from summers long ago.

A revived concession stand, break-times so adults can swim alone or with their toddlers, new lounge chairs, and Friday Teen Nights are some of the changes in store for summer swimmers in Antioch.

"We're going to open the concession stand," said Laurie Stahl, parks and recreation director. She said that the Little League stand will be open during pool hours to sell food and snacks.

"We're hoping people from town will come and use it too," she said. There will be picnic tables to encourage a lunch-time crowd looking for hot dogs in a park setting.

The soda machine by the pool will remain, but the candy machine will be removed. the concession stand will sell pizza, Chicago-style hot dogs, popcorn, nachos, snowcones, candy, and gum.

Stahl said that they will also have frozen Charleston Chew candy bars available. "It's a great childhood memory," she said of the sweet treat.

"All the profits we make will go to Antioch Youth baseball," Stahl said.

"Another thing we're bringing back is break-time at the pool," she said. Every hour there will be a 15-minute break to let parents swim with children in the pool.

"They can take their little toddlers in with them," she said. "A parent can take one child in, 6 and under."

This gives parents a chance to swim without worrying about children jumping into the pool on top of them. Kids can visit the concession stand during these breaks.

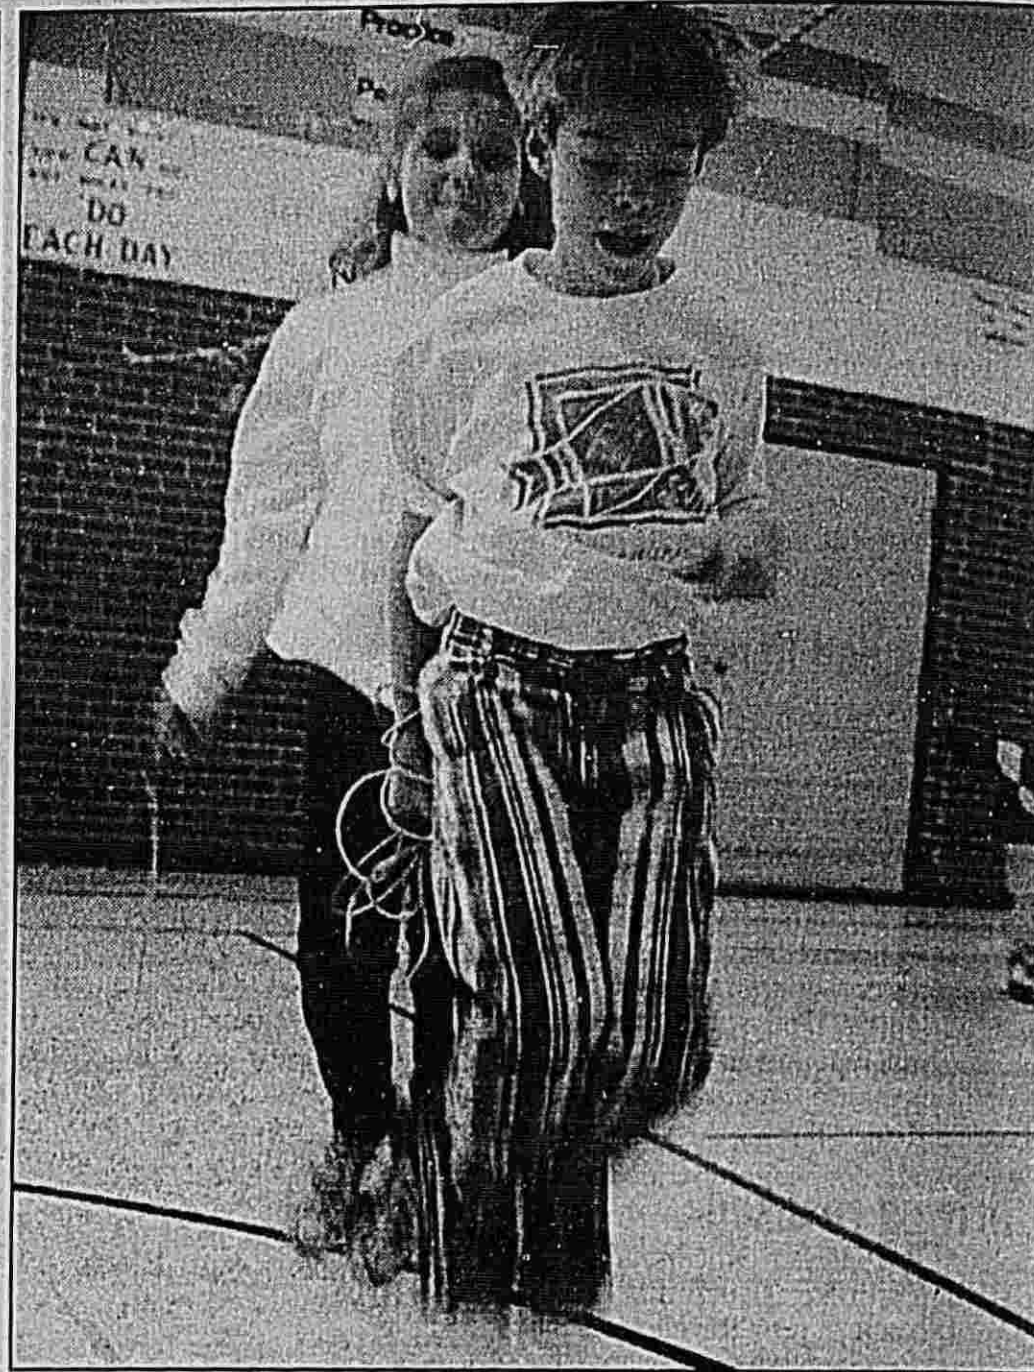

Pool passes will be available as of May 11. They can be picked up during regular Village Hall hours at the parks and recreation department.

Swimming lessons are also available at the pool. Registration for Antioch residents, both in the township and the village, is Saturday, May 16 from 9 a.m. to noon at Village Hall. "Open registration will begin on Monday, May 18."

Opening day for the pool is Saturday, May 30 at noon until 8 p.m. Regular hours will be 12:30 to 8 p.m. weekdays and noon to 8 p.m. weekends. The pool will close at 4 p.m. on days when the Antioch Waves swim team has meets at the pool.

"I've ordered some new lounge chairs," Stahl said. These will be around the pool.

"There will be Friday night 'Teen Nights' at Williams Park," Stahl said. The cost for Teen Nights will be $5.

Scouts score with auction

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Perhaps more spaghetti could have been sold, but the auction was fabulous, the greeter was a hero, and the Scouts made money.

"The auction went phenomenally," said Paula Maniscalco, one of the people managing the spaghetti dinner sponsored by Boy Scout Troop 180 at Grass Lake School April 26.

"We made $1,375 on that," she said.

A second major success for the troop was the troop's car wash on Saturday, May 2. "We made over $300. We're happy," she said.

The people who donated auction items to the school were a big part of the success story for the Scout troop.

All available members of the troop turned out to serve the dinners. "Participation was 100 percent from the boys," she said.

The spaghetti dinner, a car wash, and fire extinguisher sales are fund-raising events undertaken by the troop to help raise money for scouting activities at Camp MaKaJaWan in northern Wisconsin.

Auction items that generated bidding excitement included an outdoor clock from Stan Livermore's True Value Hardware Store in Antioch.

"Dairy Queen donated five ice-cream pizzas. That went big," Maniscalco said. PartyLite candles donated by Jacque Rognstadt were also very popular. "They were fighting over those," Maniscalco said.

Coconuts Tanning and Antioch Auto Parts also donated popular items for the auction.

"All the fishing poles went really well," she said.

"The Olde Tyme Deli 3-foot sandwich went big-time. They liked that," she said.

The biggest auction item was a summer-long boat slip at New Port Cove Marina. Maniscalco said that Jerry Risch, of Antioch, made the winning offer that put the auction over the top. She very much appreciated the donation of the boat slip by Ed Lefkowitz.

The spaghetti tasted great. People came up and said they couldn't believe how good the sauce was."

Antioch Pizza Shop and Pizza Plus donated all the food, according to Maniscalco.

"Tim Osmond, from Osmond Insurance, donated a camera and two flashlights. The camera was really nice. His wife told me how to do the auction and gave me bid slips," Maniscalco said.

Here's to a Happy Mother's Day

As if you needed any kind of a reminder—don't forget this Sunday, May 10, is Mother's Day, so do something nice for mom. Even if you two haven't always gotten along, seen eye to eye, or had a conversation that didn't end up with the police being called, this is still her day and you only have one mom.

Now, we know there are some moms out there that more resemble Roseanne than June Cleaver, but even if you put all the bad apples in a pot and cook them up into applesauce, some good can still come out of them. Okay, so some need more sugar than others but overall there is still something worthy to offer. Perhaps some of you feel your mom hasn't done anything for you. Well, who else would go through hard labor to get you here? Dad? I don't think so.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE
Lynn Pringle

As infants we start off the mom-child relationship by giving this person 39 hours of indescribable pain and then we expect an open-arms welcome—well some women just aren't that forgiving. Our first couple years are really rough on dear old mom. We are demanding, selfish, and whining, unfortunately these are traits that some of us never outgrow. We cry during meals, in the wee hours of the morning, and just because we're bored; who else, besides mom, would put up with such shenanigans. Moms are quite capable of making you feel as warm and fuzzy as a bunny, but cross them, and they can make your hair stand on end, your eyes bug out and your hands instinctively reach back to cover your behind, and this can be accomplished with just one look—we all fear that look. These moments are usually reserved for only the most unspeakable offenses, but it was always an incident that, if you favored your life, you never repeated, and even as an adult its memory still haunts you. So this Mother's Day ask mom what she would like to do.

Maybe she would rather pass on the brunch idea. Perhaps being crammed into a restaurant with 5,000 other men, women and children is not her idea of a good time, honestly when was the last time you had a decent meal with a small child present.

And as a footnote to all you husbands who will be scurrying around tomorrow looking for that perfect gift for your wife from your kids: Father's Day is just around the corner. Mom, remember those wonderful lawn mowers and chain saws you picked out for them and they know how dads love getting bread machines and facial gift certificates for Father's Day. Fair is fair and thank you Hallmark. So, do something nice for your mom, especially if you have had your share of troubles in the past, it's never too late to mend your ways.

As for my mom, well she doesn't do a whole lot of complaining these days and seems relatively content just to hang out at the cemetery, but I'll still do something for her. I think I'll get her the biggest, reddest geranium I can find. She hated red geraniums. So, here's to all you moms in Antioch and to you, mom, up there beyond those pearly white gates, flanked by red geraniums—Happy Mother's Day.

And so goes another, "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Talking Health

HOW WE CARRY OURSELVES

Many of us were nagged so relentlessly as children to "stand up straight" and "don't slouch" that the very mention of the word posture makes us uncomfortable. The only time we consider posture may be when we nag our own children. But the condition and position of the spine are important at any age.

In the last few decades much has been said about body language and the fact that the way we sit, stand, and move reveal much about our psychological and emotional states. Posture and movement also reflect your physical health and influence your health. A rounded back and hunched shoulders, for example, may suggest that an individual lacks self-confidence, but such a slump also interferes with proper functioning of the lungs. Poor posture can adversely affect the functioning of many vital organs and eventually alter the immune system itself.

So awareness of how we "hold" our bodies is not important because someone tells us to do it, but because of the major impact posture has on our health.

Sequoits vets, rookies stop Devils

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Last spring, Jason Schuler was learning as a freshman member of the sophomore baseball team.

This year, the sophomore is very much still learning, but as an important cog as Antioch (16-2 overall) makes a drive for a North Suburban Conference baseball championship.

"He has come around as a varsity player. He started strong, had a little slump and is now learning more about varsity baseball," said ACHS coach Paul Petty.

"I learn a lot from Reggie Hughes and Chris Groth, our leaders. They treat me real well," said Schuler.

Schuler is a designated hitter who did just that in a 10-0, 10-3 sweep over Warren on Saturday by the Sequoits. Schuler was retired his first at-bat in game one, then reached base three times.

He walked twice and scored Antioch's first run in the second game. His grand-slam in the sixth inning put the game on ice.

"Jason has been hitting the ball well. That was his third home run. Everyone has been hitting well and we are playing good defense," said Antioch's Reggie Hughes.

Hughes put on a clinic against Warren pitching. He had three RBIs with a two-run homer and a one-run single in game one. He had a two-run double, a single and a triple in game two. He received the ultimate compliment of a hot hitter - an intentional walk.

"Our pitchers are pitching under control and the middle to bottom of the order is coming through," said Petty.

And it doesn't hurt to have a senior shortstop like Groth. Groth can charge a bunt or call off a left-fielder with equal confidence. He also comes through with the bat. He had a two-run single in game one.

Antioch's ace Karl Richter (7-0) got the win in game one. He fanned four, a season high.

"Our offense is awesome. It was just my fastball working. I tried to vary my delivery to keep the hitters off-balance," said Richter.

Richter plans to attend Illinois Benedictine College and major in psychology next fall.

"Karl works very fast. If this was a professional game, he would keep the crowd happy," said Petty.

Antioch's nine-run third inning in which 14 batters were sent to the plate ended all doubt in game one. Big blows were a two-run homer by Hughes, his eighth; an RBI triple by Adam Bubash and an RBI single by leadoff man George Fuchs. Warren errors also assisted.

Hughes showed his speed on the bases as Antioch scored first in game two. Schuler had walked, went to second on an error and third on a ground-out. Hughes out-raced the throw to first-base and Schuler scored the run.

Hughes' two-run double in the second gave Antioch a 3-0 lead.

Warren answered, responding to a pep talk, in the third as Mike Zorich singled and later scored on a ground out.

Warren's only other offense came with three singles and a walk in the seventh produced two runs.

"I am extremely disappointed. We have not played well for 10 days. The conference is tough, and we will have to play better to be competitive," said Warren coach Dar Townsend.

"I did not anticipate such a big margin," said Petty.

Warren had a 10-game win streak to open the season. A split with Mundelein and Stevenson before the double loss to Antioch on a dark afternoon after prom night left Warren all but out of the NSC race at 2-2.

Warren seeks to bounce back, this week this week against Zion-Benton. Libertyville is up next, May 12 away and May 14 home.

Sequoits girls heads-up defense edges Stevenson in NSC win

Chalk one up for the defense. Antioch up-ended Stevenson to earn a split in the North Suburban Conference series with a 4-2 softball win.

"With the up and down nature of our season, this game was won by defense," said Antioch coach Steve Wapon.

Nicole Langley, Antioch's first baseman, was involved in several key plays.

She started a first base to double play at home. With the game on the line in the sixth inning, pitcher Kristin Scopel fielded a ground ball and fired to catcher Megs Kotlarz. Kotlarz then rifled a throw to Langley for the third out of the inning.

Antioch scored first when Kaeleen O'Connell's two-run double scored Scopel and Shannah Jaburek, who singled.

Melissa Bock's triple scored Scopel and O'Connell in the fifth. O'Connell, a sophomore pitcher, was 2 of 3 with 2 RBIs; Bock was 1 of 3 with a triple.

"Defense was the key. This was also the first game which we had our entire lineup," said Wapon.

Stevenson had downed Antioch 7-2 in the first game.

Antioch won one of three games at the Buffalo Grove quadrangular.

They ran into area-ranked competition and fell 10-0 to Buffalo Grove and 7-2 to Loyola.

Freshman Abbey Thomas got the start against Buffalo Grove and pitched well early, for three innings. Antioch managed only one hit, by Kotlarz in the third.

O'Connell did not have much defensive support in the loss to Loyola.

"We had a myriad of errors behind her. They took advantage of all our mistakes," said Wapon.

Jaburek had an RBI single and Scopel scored on a wild pitch to account for the two Antioch runs.

Antioch led 9-4 against Highland Park in the late going but had to hold on for a 9-8 win.

Scopel improved to 6-3 on the mound as she struck out six, walked two in a nine-hitter.

From the injury front, the Sequoits lost Jenny Minor this week to a shoulder injury.

Antioch has a schedule packed full of conference games. These include a doubleheader at Williams Park against Warren May 6. North Chicago completes a two-game series May 7. Wauconda, a top independent, is the May 8 foe. Antioch is at Lake Forest May 12.

Dragons win Silver Division

Lindenhurst Dragons U-12 boys chalked up their second win in the Silver Division of the Northern Illinois Soccer League by defeating the Glendale Heights American Eagles by the score of 5 to 1. The hardworking Dragon defense (Doug Brasky, Matt Carlson, Ryan McHale, Manny Rivera, Donny Sonnefeldt) and goalies (Richard Brown, Danny O'Neil) held the Eagles to 1 goal. The Dragons got on the board early in the first half.

Dragon forward Matthew Gray scored off a pass from Zachary Highland. In the second half the Dragons pulled away with a goal from Josh Enck, off a beautiful ball from Jim Cepawskes. The Dragons opened the game up with goals from Ryan Overby, Matt Gray and Robbie Stewart assisted by the tough midfielders Lucas Barrett, Zachary Barrett, James Kubisiak and Nick Lavine.

The Dragons started out their spring season at home against the Naperville Lightning with a 1 to 0 win. The second week of the season they tied the Bartlett Lightning 1 to 1.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

Hughes

Name: Reggie Hughes
School: Antioch
Sport: Baseball
Year: Senior

Last week's stats: Hit two home runs, reached base seven of eight times as Antioch beat Stevenson 10-9 and swept Warren for 6-0 start in North Suburban Conference.

Rogers

Name: Katie Rogers
School: Antioch
Sport: Track
Year: Senior

Last week's stats: Finished second in the discus and third in the shot put at Woodstock's meet.

Rodgers dominates discus; aims for NSC

Katie Rodgers' effort in the discus outdistanced the rest of the field at Waukegan's meet and could give her momentum for the conference and sectional meets.

Rodgers threw 114.6 feet at the Waukegan meet. She was Antioch's only champion.

"Her best is 117, but it is good when she can throw in the 100-teens. She has been working on her consistency, so she can throw the same way each time," said Antioch coach Kathy Kelly.

Rodgers scored the highest of any Antioch team member at the Woodstock meet. She had a 108.7 in the discus for second place, 32.475 in the shot put for third.

"She just needs to be confident. We could have a champion in the discus at conference," said Kelly.

Antioch scored 21 team points at Waukegan, ninth out of 15 teams.

Antioch was 54 points for 11th place at Woodstock, in what Kelly described as a meet with a lot of talent.

At Woodstock, the 1,600 meter relay was fifth as freshman Jen Drzejewski, Michelle Watters, Jessica Sladek and Julie Sytma had a 4:38.4.

The 3,200 meter relay was fourth with a season-best 10:46.7. Laurin Stenberg, Kristen Jensen, Megan Mitchell and Kara Henneberry teamed up for the effort.

Earlier, Cindy Aikus earned two place winners for Antioch. She was fourth in the long jump and fifth in the triple jump. She had her best effort to date in the triple jump in 33.3 at a dual meet. She was fourth in the long jump and fifth in the triple jump at Woodstock.

"It was her last jump of the meet. She has been coming on. She has an outside shot at qualifying for state," said Kelly.

Kara Henneberry was sixth in the mile.

Jill Cardis turned in a fifth-place in the discus in 98.5 at Waukegan.

"She is definitely improving," said Kelly.

Lake Forest dominated Antioch in a North Suburban Conference dual. The Scouts were favored to win the North Suburban Conference meet May 7 at Mundelein. The sectional meet, with all the NSC teams, is May 15 at Stevenson.

"Our goal in the conference is to lower some times and get ready for sectional," said Kelly.

BASEBALL TIP OF THE WEEK

This week's tip: How to throw

To win in the game of baseball or softball a team needs good pitching and good defense. Learning how to throw properly helps in both of those departments. The fundamental way to throw has rules to follow so a player is consistently throwing to the target. The more you practice and practice these rules the more confident and successful a player will be in the game. The fundamentals to throw start with the grip.

The Grip:

There are two basic ways to grip a baseball or softball. For small hands, the three finger grip helps for learning and accuracy. For larger hands, the two finger grip gives speed and accuracy. (Photo #1) The grip on the ball is soft like holding an egg and the ball is held in the front of the fingers. When the ball is released from the hand, the thumb is first then the fingers. When the ball is released, the fingers should snap through the ball from the top of the ball to the bottom. DO NOT turn the hand when releasing the ball, this will cause injury to the elbow and/or shoulder. Try to throw the ball across the seams every time.

Close to target:

Once a player fields or catches the ball (Photo #2), making a small jump and twist with their body, they must close their body to the target (Photo #3). It is very important to close off to the target every time, this will help give strength, speed, and accuracy to the throw.

Wind up to throw:

After closing off, the hands separate in a downward circle motion moving the elbows up to shoulders height.

The front shoulder and front elbow will line up to the target while the throwing hand extends back so the ball is facing away (Photo #4). Again this will give strength, speed, and accuracy to the throw. At higher levels, different positions like catching might throw a little different but they have the same rules.

Step to the target and rotate:

Stepping to the target is as important as closing off to the target. After the wind up to throw, the player pushes off the back foot while the body stays on an axis and does not move with the step, the front foot steps right at the target. Step on the front part of the foot (ball) or the whole foot lands flat on the ground. The front toe does not have to point at the target, it just has to move to the target. Once the foot is planted the body will rotate on its axis towards the target. The front elbow will start to open and lower while the back elbow stay up at shoulders height until the ball is released from the hand (Photo #5).

Follow through:

To make stress away from the shoulder and elbows a good follow through is important. After the ball is released from the fingers, the body starts to bend forward and balances over the front foot. The throwing arm will cross over the body and finish low around the front knee. The glove hand will finish at the hip or behind the back.

The back foot should rotate last and finish about even and balanced with the front foot (Photo #6). The back muscles help to slow down the arm after the throw. If a player stops the arm early after the throw it can cause injuries.

First take each step slowly without throwing the ball. Practice each step until putting them all together without falling off balance. When comfortable, start throwing a ball short distances to the target, the consistency will build confidence. Increase the distance to add strength, speed and accuracy to that new fundamental throw.

Pitching, team offense leads ACHS to top NSC

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Antioch High is the team to beat in the North Suburban Conference baseball race.

The Sequoias are now the undisputed leaders of the NSC at 6-0. An 11-2 win over Stevenson coupled with Warren's dramatic win over Mundelein gave Antioch the top spot three games into the league race.

The stellar pitching of Karl Richter was supported by a 13-hit attack against three shell-shocked Stevenson hurlers. Seven errors behind the Patriots pitching helped keep two five-run rallies going.

"I was a pitcher since I started in baseball," said Richter.

What was working to stymie the Patriots hitters?

"I was just working the fastball on the outside corner. The umpire did not give me the low strike, so I had to raise it," said Richter.

Richter, a senior, fanned just three batters, but retired 14 in a row from a two-run first inning until tiring in the seventh.

"That is typical for us - the recipe for success so far this year. Every win is important. We beat them a couple of years ago, but we are becoming more respectable in the conference. Last year they pounded us here and we lost in the seventh inning at home," said Antioch coach Paul Petty.

Richter said he has much confidence in the defense behind him. Compared to seven miscues by the Pats, Antioch only had one error.

Antioch had key two-run singles by Adam Bubash and Reggie Hughes. Antioch was paced by Groth with three hits and two RBIs.

Ray George (one RBI); Hughes (two RBI); Bubash (two runs, three RBIs) and Richter (two runs, one RBI) each had two hits.

"Adam's two-run single was huge. He had been in a little bit of a slump. We moved him to the No. 6 or 7 spot in the order so he could see less curveballs. He seems to be coming through," said Petty.

It took two days, but Antioch outlasted Stevenson 10-9 to complete the sweep.

The last three innings were played on Friday and Antioch added two more runs to stave off a Patriots rally.

Hughes had his seventh home run of the year. Groth, McCullom, Schuler all had doubles. Bubash added a triple for Antioch.

Tom Baird got the win in relief.

Typhoon boys tie Red Devils

In their first away game of the spring season the Lindenhurst Typhoon (Boys U-10, NISL, Bronze Division) tied the LTSC Red Devils-Black of LaGrange, 2-2. The Red Devils scored early in the first quarter and again in the second quarter to take a 2-0 lead into the half-time break, the Typhoon were simply out-hustled in the first half and they knew it.

The second half was a different story as the Typhoon defense and offense controlled the ball nearly the entire half. Typhoon forward Ian Hunter scored early in the third quarter from a Jason Moxley pass and again in the fourth quarter with the assist going to Ryan Knupp. The Typhoon forwards and midfielders took over 20 shots on goal in the second half, many just missing their mark, as they pushed for the win. Credit goes to the goalies from both teams as the play was intense. Typhoon goalies, Kyle Kozuch, Brett Carlson and Darren Nordstrom, played an aggressive style that kept the Red Devils at bay. The Typhoon have a 1-1-1 record and their next game is Sunday, May 10.

College of Lake County softball makes late push for wins

The end of the regular season is always a good time for a team to catch fire.

That seems to what has happened for the College of Lake County softball team. The Lancers won the first two games of the post-season tournament over McHenry, 16-0 and 9-7. The wins give the Lancers a six-game winning streak.

Beth Stolarik earned the win in both games and does not mind doing double duty.

"I felt pretty confident. We split with them the week before. The offense did really well in the second game," said Stolarik.

Stolarik, a Carmel grad, pitched five innings in game one with a one-hitter and just two walks and fanned three.

She also contributes on offense. "I have always been someone you can count on," said Stolarik.

In game two, eight runs in the final three at-bats pushed CLC over the top. Tina Meyer, a sophomore, had a double and 3 RBIs. Angie Blank was 2 of 2.

Marsha Letto, a former Mundelein standout, had 5 RBIs in game one.

CLC (25-17) faced Blackhawk away in the second round with a bid to the state finals at stake.

Lake Villa Lightning crush Antioch

Lake Villa Township Baseball's 13 year old Traveling Team, the Lightning, pounded Antioch 19-1 in its home opener at Township Park.

Chad Stroup (1-0) got the start and the win as he was well supported with an 18 hit attack and errorless defense. Nick Blocker threw two perfect innings of relief and Sean Walker closed out the game for the Lightning (3-0). Lake Villa scored 6 runs on 7 hits in the 3rd inning to jump in front 9-0 and take control of the game. They then added a big 8 run 5th to close out the scoring.

The hitting barrage was led by C.J. Walleck, Chad Stroup, and Nick Blocker. Walleck had 3 hits, scored 2 runs, and drove in 4. Stroup had 3 hits including a double, scored 3 runs and drove in a run while Blocker had 3 hits, 2 doubles, scored twice, and had an RBI.

Others hitting standouts included Brian Blanas (2 hits, double, run, rbi), Scott Wold (2 hits, double, 2 runs, rbi) Brad Hoogerhyde (2 hits, run, 2 rbi's) Sean Walker (1 hit, double, run, 2 rbi's) Matt Poleck (hit, 2 runs), and Ryan Myers (hit, 2 runs).

PM&L 'Crimes' opens May 15

PM&L Theater opens "Crimes of the Heart" May 15 for nine performances over three weekends.

"It has heart, wit, and surprisingly zanny passion that must carry all before it," said Theater Critic Clive Barnes of the New York Post. "It would certainly be a crime for anyone interested in theater not to see this play."

The play is presented May 15, 16, 22, 23, 29, and 30 at 8 p.m. and May 17, 24, and 31 at 2:30 p.m.

This production is directed by Peter Pinter of Island Lake.

The cast includes Leslie Meyer, of Kenosha, playing Meg Magrath, Kathleen Nelson, of Lake Villa, as Lenny Magrath, and Gigi Willding, of Ingleside, portraying Babe Botrelle.

Linda Hachmeister, of Antioch, plays Chick Boyle. Dave Masak, of Mundelein, plays Meg Magrath's old boyfriend, Doc Porter. Tom Gorham, of Lake Zurich, portrays Babe Botrelle's lawyer, Barnette Lloyd.

Oakwood Knolls residents hear benefits of 'watch'

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Improved homeowner security and neighborhood safety are more simple to achieve than people expect.

That was the message of Sgt. Jim Foerster of the Antioch Police Department at a recent meeting of the Oakwood Knolls Homeowners Association. Scott Pierce is serving as Neighborhood Watch Commander for the subdivision.

"Crime prevention is really a science," he told the association's directors. "We do not have to allow ourselves to be victims."

Part of his presentation focused on the crime prevention actions that homeowners can take when building their homes or by improving the security of an existing home. Foerster also discussed neighborhood-wide strategies for improved safety.

Foerster showed a videotape about improved home security measures. People can make their homes more resistant to burglary.

Sliding glass doors and small panel windows offer burglars ease of access to a home unless properly secured or replaced. Homes should have a lived-in look when owners are on vacation. Deadbolt locks on solid doors are more secure than other combinations.

Foerster said that the majority of burglaries are committed because people do not lock doors or close windows.

Foerster discussed the Neighborhood Watch concept used in Antioch.

"Don't ever be afraid to call us over something," he told the association. "Pay attention to what is going on in your neighborhoods."

"We can't be everywhere at once," he said. "We need your help."

People who notify the police of suspicions do not have to become involved with the investigation. People should always call, but they can notify the dispatcher they do not want an officer to stop at their home.

The 911 Dispatcher will still want to know the identity of the telephone caller, but that is only for call backs if additional information is necessary.

"You still have the right not to be seen by a police officer," he said.

"We do have a vacation house watch," Foerster said. "Don't hesitate to use it." Police will check the home during the day while homeowners are gone.

Antioch Police will also do a home security survey. Police will come to a home to make suggestions on ways to improve home security.

Neighborhood Watch sign are available from the Antioch Police Department. Criminals know that such a sign means that area residents have had contact with the police about the need for neighborhood safety.

Rotary aids Filipino farmers, fund dam

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Rotary Club has helped to fund construction of three mini-dam projects on the Maasim River in San Rafael on the eastern side of Bulacan Province in the Philippines.

As many as 30 to 40 farm families will benefit from the first mini-dam constructed.

"Our third dam was approved," said Rick Kuehn. He told the Antioch Rotary Club the news at their Thursday, April 23 meeting. "Our $3,000 contribution will create a rural development project in the Philippines."

The $3,000 donation by Antioch Rotary, and $2,500 from its District leadership, has been leveraged to help create a total project budget of $40,000.

Antioch Rotary has worked with the Rotary Club of Waimate, New Zealand to improve farming opportunities with these projects.

Kuehn is the Chair of Antioch Rotary's International Service Committee. He has acquired support from local and national Rotary organizations for this project.

Kuehn reported that the Rotary investment would help obtain two to three harvests for 10 to 15 families "that were basically starving or living below standards." The dam will allow farmers to save water from the rainy season to help their crops survive the long dry season from November to May.

The Antioch Rotary project originated in 1993 when a planning team from western Australia looked for a site to build water catchment dams in the Philippines.

Antioch Rotary participated in each of the three projects with amounts ranging from $1,500 to $2,000.

The project also received financial support from the Rotary Club of Dunedin South and Waimate Rotary in New Zealand, Rotary District 3770 in the Philippines, and the Rotary Club of San Ildefonso. In addition, District 9980 and the Rotary Club of San Rafael participated in the project.

The funding raised by those groups was matched by the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International in Evanston, Illinois. There was additional personal financial contributions by Ewan and Ailsa McKenzie and Jim and Valmay Rayner (of the Waimate Club), and Gordon and Marge Allen (of the Dunedin South Club).

The mini-dam is built of concrete and steel rods. It is 33 feet wide at the base. It is about 5 to 6 feet high and 131 to 197 feet long. There are several gates to discharge impounded water. It is expected that the water will irrigate 100 to 149 acres of agricultural land.

Letter carriers to collect food

The U.S. Postal Service is asking all Antioch homeowners to inspect and repair their mailboxes during Mailbox Improvement Week, May 18 to 23, says Postmaster Thomas Prince.

"Repairing suburban and rural mailboxes improves the appearance of our community and makes delivering and receiving mail safer for our carriers and customers," Prince says.

The Postal Service makes this yearly request because of the wear and tear that occur to mailboxes every year. This is especially important after the effects of winter, he adds.

Some of the typical activities that may need to be taken include:

- Replacing loose hinges on mailbox door.

- Repainting a mailbox that may have rusted or started peeling.

- Remounting a mailbox post if loosened.

- Replacing or adding house numbers.

If a homeowner plans to install a new mailbox or replace a worn one, he or she must use only USPS-approved traditional or contemporary mailboxes, said Prince. Customers should be careful when purchasing curbside mail receptacles as use of unapproved boxes is prohibited. Customers may use a custom-built mailbox, but they must consult with my office to ensure it conforms to guidelines applying to flag, size, strength, and quality of construction.

For more information on the use of names or numbers on mailboxes, or answers to any other questions, call at 395-0097 or stop by the Antioch Post Office at 405 Orchard Street.

Antioch crime rate follows national crime decline

Antioch crime patterns, as measured by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Uniform Crime Reports, have followed national patterns of decline.

There was only one of the eight categories in which an increase was reported from 1996 to 1997. There were 14 motor vehicle thefts in 1996 and 15 were reported in 1997 for an increase of 7.1 percent.

There was no change in reported crimes for 1996 and 1997 in the categories of murder and criminal sexual assault (rape). There were no murders in either year, and there was one reported rape in 1996 and 1997.

Robberies declined from 1 reported in 1996 to none reported in 1997. There were 3 arsons reported in 1996 and none in 1997. In both categories, the FBI reported a 100 percent decline.

Aggravated assault and battery dropped 37.5 percent from 1996 (8 incidents) to 1997 (5 incidents).

Burglary dropped a reported 25.9 percent. There were 58 incidents in 1996 and 43 reported in 1997.

Theft dropped a reported 25.2 percent. There were 405 thefts reported in 1996 and 303 in 1997.

The total rate of crime in Antioch dropped 25.1 percent from 1996 to 1997.

Lightning open season with sweep

Lake Villa Township Baseball's 13-year-old Traveling Team, the Lightning, opened its season on Saturday, by sweeping the Wheaton Warriors in a doubleheader at Wheaton. The 9-6 and 3-2 victories give the Lightning a good start following last year's amazing 51-9 record which included a State Championship and a 2nd place finish in the regionals.

Game one featured some timely hitting in the late innings as Lake Villa rallied from a 4-0 deficit by scoring all of their runs in the final two innings.

Antioch Vikings Youth Football registration to be held May 17

Registration for the 1998 Antioch Vikings Youth Football program will be held this Sunday, May 17 from 12 till 3 p.m. at Antioch High School in the commons area of the school. The program is open to any youth living in the Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst area.

Flag football players can also sign up Saturday, May 16. Cost for the flag program is just $50.

The Viking tackle program is open to any youth currently in the 3rd through 7th grade. The Vikings compete in the Junior Football League of Northern Illinois (JFLNI). Games are played against area communities such as Fox Lake, Warren Township, Grayslake, Round Lake, Mundelein, Highland Park, and McHenry. In addition to the regular season, the Vikings travel to an out of state National Bowl game over the Thanksgiving weekend. Last year the Vikings played in bowl games in Indianapolis, Ind.; Atlanta, Ga. and at the indoor Uni-Dome at Northern Iowa University.

Players will play on one of eight tackle teams according to age, school grade, and weight. New in 1998 is a Bantam tackle program for first year players—7 to 8 years of age.

Home games will be played at either Antioch High School or Central High School in Salem, Wis.

CWS won by Miller brothers

Despite the bad weather, the Chain Walleye Series (CWS) attracted 38 teams to its second team walleye tournament of the year at Steitz' Resort in Antioch. It was cold, rainy and windy, yet 24 teams managed to bring in 57 walleye with a total weight of 70.92 pounds. All 57 walleye survived and were released back into the water after the weigh-in.

John Miller and brother, Jim Miller, both from McHenry collected $1,000 for first place by weighing-in four walleye with a total weight of 5.86 pounds. Second place went to Dan Lennon and Rich Rad, both from McHenry, who also weighed-in four walleye with a total weight of 5.36 pounds and paid $500. Third place went to Tony Klepacki of Johnsburg and Joe Majewski of McHenry, who also weighed-in four walleye with a total weight of 5.31 pounds and paid $400. Fourth—$280—Todd Miller and Jason Schine; 5th—$240—Paul Lehecka and Aaron Warning; 6th—$200—Jim Lass and Mike Gofron; 7th—$180—Shawn Schuld and Matt Sommers; 8th—$120—Lance Weber and Alan Loukota; 9th—$120—John Lass and Gary Steinhofner. The biggest walleye of the day, weighing 1.95 pounds, was hooked by Paul Lehecka of McHenry and Aaron Warning of Fox Lake, which paid $350.

CWS is a new team walleye tournament series this year, consisting of seven qualifying events throughout the year, all being hosted by Steitz' Resort, and directed by Tammy and Scott Duncan. Qualifying tournament number 3 will be held on Sunday, May 31. Teams are not required to fish the entire circuit in order to be eligible for the championship at the end of the year; the top 20 yearly point leaders will qualify. In past years, teams have qualified for the championship by fishing only three qualifying events. The cost of an entry fee for each qualifying event is $120 per team. Visit Steitz' Resort or any of the local bait shops for tournament rules and entry forms, or call Scott or Tammy Duncan at (815) 675-6447 for more information.

I was anxious about my upcoming surgery—

Until my surgeon told me about Victory.

Outpatient Surgery—The Victory Difference

I'd never had surgery, so of course I was nervous. I really didn't know what to expect. But, my surgeon said

I'd be very happy with the way they would treat me at Victory. He told me their same-day surgery department is the best he's worked with. The nurses are well-trained and extremely supportive. And, they're always ready to give patients a little extra hand-holding, a warm blanket and a reassuring smile.

My surgeon said he also appreciates the up-to-date equipment at Victory and the way everyone in the department works together. Then, he loaned us a video that explained about surgery at Victory in more detail.

My surgeon was right! From the very beginning everything went smoothly. I was pleased my family could be with me right up until I went into the operating room. And, when my surgery took a little longer than expected, the surgical nurse called the waiting area to let my family know.

Advanced technology, dedicated nurses and an uncompromising commitment to patient satisfaction—that's why so many experienced Lake County surgeons prefer Victory. You will, too.

Choose Victory. You'll recognize the difference.

Congregation builds faith, fellowship as they work together to construct 76,000 square foot addition

Staff Reporter

Members of the Quentin Road Bible Baptist Church in Lake Zurich have a reason to be proud. Almost all 800 of them—including children, teenagers, adults and the elderly—joined in to build a 76,000-square-foot multi-purpose facility from the foundation up.

"I'm sure that people gave their time because they felt it was a call from God to get this done," said Dr. James A. Scudder, the church's senior pastor.

The new facility was dedicated during a ceremony, May 3. It features a 2,500-seat auditorium, a radio and television production studio, a gymnasium, offices, a full-size commercial kitchen and a swimming pool.

"A lot of congregations build their own buildings, but not one of this size," said Scudder. "I would be surprised to hear of another church that built a structure this big."

Scudder says the major motivation behind the project was the members' love for their church.

"We were packed. But hiring contractors to build an addition would have caused us to go bankrupt," he said. "Our members love their church and they wanted the extra space, so they worked together to do it themselves."

The effort was rife with challenges. Much of the work was completed during cold winter weather. Only a few of the participants had any previous construction experience. They all had to learn to master a variety of tasks, some easy, some quite difficult.

"The hardest part was raising the beams," said Scudder. "We had to raise nine and each weighed 8,000 pounds. The first one we tried to raise was twisting and not going up right. We prayed. Eventually we figured out how to do it and the rest fell into place."

Another challenge was the roofing. "On the first day, we went so slow it seemed that it would take forever," said Scudder. "But in time we were finishing 5,000 square feet of roofing a day."

Almost all members turned out to help with the project. A crew of 200 worked on the weekends and 60 worked on the weekdays. While the children and senior citizens handled light tasks such as sweeping and cleaning, adults undertook anything from flooring to painting to raising steel beams.

"Whatever task you had, you felt you were a very important part of the project," said

Charles Clifford, a congregation member and president of a car dealership in Buffalo Grove. "I worked on the doors but felt just as important as the people working with the steel. There was a great sense of fellowship among the participants."

Clifford said he joined the church three years ago because he perceived a strong sense of acceptance and friendliness from the moment he walked in.

"The church is like a magnet," he said. "It will take you in no matter who you are, and that's a unique feeling."

The Quentin Road Bible Baptist Church started out by serving a handful of people in a storefront on Chicago's Fullerton Avenue in 1972. The following year, it moved to a 5-acre site in Palatine.

It was there that Dr. Scudder, the son of a Methodist preacher, started the Quentin Road Christian School for grades K-12 and the Dayspring Bible College, a four-year program that trains men and women to become Christian leaders.

Due to the steady growth of both the church and schools, the church moved to a 40-acre site in Lake Zurich in 1984, its present location. The congregation members erected a 24,000-square-foot building on their own.

"Altogether, there are five buildings that our members helped build," said Scudder. "And there are a few who worked on all five of them."

One of the most popular programs of the church is its preschool program, which began in 1985. Parents from all over the Northwest suburbs enroll their 3- to 5-year-olds year-round. Serving more than 800 children, it has become one of the nation's largest Christian preschools.

In the early 1990s, the church began to reach far more people by broadcasting 'The Quentin Road Bible Hour' on television. The program airs in all 50 states as well as in India and Bolivia. In 1997, 'Victory in Grace,' a radio program featuring Dr. Scudder, aired for the first time. The broadcast schedule continues

THEATRE

'Meet Me in St. Louis'

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild announces the upcoming production of "Meet Me in St. Louis." Weekend performances will begin on May 1 and run through May 24. Show times are 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, and 2:30 p.m. on Sundays. Performances will be held at the Prairie Lakes Communities Center Auditorium, 515 E. Thacker in Des Plaines. Ticket prices are $12, and can be reserved by calling the Des Plaines Theatre Guild 24-hour hotline at 391-5720.

"Meet Me in St. Louis" is a rare treasure in the musical theatre; it is the warmhearted story of a happy family's life, as they anticipate the wonders of the 1904 World's Fair. Seven great songs from Hugh Martin and Ralph Blane's beautiful score for the 1944 film and 10 wonderful new songs by Martin and Blane have been specially arranged for the stage. Each of the new musical numbers helps define the Smith family's special character. The songs show how their love and respect for each other is tempered with the genuine humor that can only be generated by such a family.

'Beauty and the Beast'

"Beauty and the Beast," a play with music and dance will be presented by Classics On Stage! of Chicago through June 5. Completely realized, beautiful stage settings and lighting; gorgeous costumes; wonderful songs and dances; and a completely professional cast of Actor's Equity Association adult performers highlight this presentation from Chicago's premiere Theatre for Young Audiences production company. The production features a script by playwright Michele L. Vacca, music and songs by Alex Dillon, and choreography by Nancy Irvine.

The play takes place at the spectacular 1,400 seat Pickwick Theatre, Touhy Ave. & Northwest Highway, Park Ridge. The show days are Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 10:30 a.m., and selected Saturdays at noon. General admission tickets are $6.50, $5.50 in advance, with group rates available. Reservations are necessary.

For reservations or more information, call (773) 989-0598.

Julie Ann Emery stars as Gypsy Rose Lee, and Alene Robertson, right, is Mama Rose in "Gypsy" at the Marriott Lincolnshire Theatre.

'Gypsy'

Gypsy is back! Often praised as one of Broadway's greatest triumphs, Gypsy is as gutsy and timeless as it was on opening night in 1959. Based on Gypsy Rose Lee's memoirs, Gypsy traces the life of Mama Rose, a bold, larger-than-life "stage-mother" who is determined to make vaudeville stars out of her two daughters, June and Louise. Gypsy features music by Jule Styne, lyrics by Stephen Sondheim and book by Arthur Laurents.

Alene Robertson reprises her role as Mama Rose, and Julie Ann Emery stars as her daughter Louise, better known as Gypsy Rose Lee.

The play is at the Marriott Lincolnshire Theatre and runs through May 31. Performances are Wednesdays at 2 and 8 p.m.; Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m.; Saturdays at 5 and 8:30 p.m.; and Sundays at 2:30 and 7 p.m. Tickets are $33; senior citizens and students receive a $5 discount on Wednesdays

'On the Paper Trail' reveals stories behind artifacts

Every picture has a fascinating story to tell. That's the premise behind the Chicago Historical Society's exhibition, "On the Paper Trail," which continues through March 1999.

Since its founding in 1856, the Chicago Historical Society (CHS) has amassed nearly 20 million objects, images and documents that reveal Chicago's rich and powerful history. Each year, more than 15,000 people find illustrations, check old blueprints, complete a paper or simply satisfy their curiosity at the Chicago Historical Society. Millions more experience these images and documents through the many film and television documentaries, videos, books, magazines, web sites and CDs produced each year using Chicago Historical Society research collections.

After visiting the "On the Paper Trail" exhibit, visitors are invited to take a look at the new Research Center where they can access the extensive collections of architectural drawings, archives and manuscripts, prints, photographs and published materials. Research assistants are available daily to help visitors uncover their own "paper trails."

Nine compelling objects elucidating Chicago's past will be on display in the "On the Paper Trail" exhibit, including:

- 1795 Treaty of Greenville: This treaty between the U.S. government and 12 Native American tribes gained important land in the northwest territory, including six square miles where Chicago now stands. Native Americans did not recognize land ownership in the Western sense and lost everything.

- 1964 Speech by Martin Luther King, Jr. on Video: From WGN Chicago newsreel footage, Dr.

Drama camp

The Jack Benny Center for the Arts will offer two two-week Creative Dramatics Camps this summer. The Camps will be held in Bowen Park at 39 Jack Benny Dr., Waukegan, just off N. Sheridan Rd. Dates for the two-week long camps are June 8 through June 20 and July 6 through July 18 with regular four hour workshops daily from 1 to 5 p.m. Each session will run Monday through Friday with a performance on Saturday at the end of each session. Campers will explore acting, writing, costuming, makeup, and theater exercises under the supervision of a professional staff. The Camps are open to children ages 7 to 14. The program will be directed by Margaret E. Schultz. Schultz has written and directed many of the most popular plays presented in the Summer Shows for Young Audiences programs each summer. She has been active in several area acting classes and camps for children.

'The Waltz Invention'

Enter, if you will, into the macabre world of inventor and poet, Salvator Waltz. He has just succeeded in attaining an interview with The Minister of War. He will share with his country a weapon of unparalleled magnitude, but only if he's in charge...of everything. The Minister and his absurd council of generals debate the finer points of giving in to his demands. After all, he alone holds the key to peace and prosperity for all. But they soon find themselves subjects of a mad dictator. Will his mysterious invention bring supreme power or ruin? The Waltz Invention, written in 1938 by Vladimir Nabokov, will be the final mainstage offering of Strawdog's 10th season. Regular performances are Fridays and Saturdays

The Underwater World of The Bahamas

by JIM WARNKEN, President North Star Travel, Inc.

Would you like the opportunity to swim with Dolphins? For the more adventurous, how about diving with sharks?

If it's an encounter with a marine creature you're looking for, you'll find it in the Bahamas.

On Paradise Island, just across the bay from the cruise port of Nassau, visitors can take part in a half day Dolphin Encounter program which includes a 30 minute swim with dolphins in a private lagoon.

If you don't want to actually get in the water with these marine mammals, UNEXSO (Underwater Explorers Society), in Freeport, Grand Bahamas Island, offers a "get acquainted" Dolphin Experience where guests sit on the edge of an observation platform with their feet in the water and the dolphins come to visit.

For an up-close and personal visit with a shark, see Stuart Cove's South Ocean Dive Shop on New Providence Island. He'll take you on a dive where you can meet face-to-face with inhabitants of Shark Wall.

You don't have to be "Jacques Cousteau" to enjoy diving in the Bahamas. In fact, South Ocean offers "get your feet wet" snorkeling adventures for the beginner designed by none less than Jean-Michel Cousteau!

The more experienced diver may be interested in the "blue hole" caves found throughout the Bahamas. Blue holes are actually fresh water wells which form underwater caves in the limestone ocean bottom surrounding the islands. Of particular interest is "Stargate", located just off Andros Island and "Lost Blue Hole", off Nassau. Any of the many Bahamas dive operators will be happy to take you to these.

Those who enjoy wreck diving can visit the "B.J." which lies intact in 55 feet of water just off Nassau or the Sapona, a World War I freighter which lies in the shallows of Bimini. Or for something really different, how about an underwater train wreck? You can find one off the island of Eleuthera. Actually, it's a locomotive which fell off a barge on its way to Cuba in 1865.

The nutrient-rich Gulf Stream which passes to the eastern shores of the Bahamas Islands, along with conservation efforts of local dive shops, have produced a staggering wealth of marine life which will almost overwhelm the diver and snorkeler alike.

Again, don't worry if you're not a certified diver. In fact, you don't even have to get wet. Just board the Atlantis Submarine, operating from Nassau for an 80 foot dive to a breathtaking coral reef.

Jordan 'in the Zone'

It was April 29th; it was the spring of 98, And the playoffs had begun, although our Bulls weren't looking great. They had squeaked by in the first two games, then hopped onto their jets, Flying off to face Game Three, against the young New Jersey Nets.

Hope was high on the agenda for New Jersey's Nets that day.

Though the first two games were losses, they had 2 home games to play. Their forward, Jayson Williams, even talked of a "Game 5".

Kinetic Council hosts 'An Uncommon Evening'

The Museum of Science and Industry's Kinetic Council, a young professionals group, will host its fourth "An Uncommon Evening" event on Saturday, May 9. The event, which raises funds for the Museum's educational programs—Role Models and Leaders, Science Club Network, Summer Science Camps, Teacher Workshops and Learning Labs—will be held at the Museum of Science and Industry, 57th St. and Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, from 6:30 until 11 p.m.

The 1998 "An Uncommon Evening" will, once again, feature the popular, museum-wide scavenger hunt. The scavenger hunt allows participants to enjoy and explore 800 exhibits while searching for the answers to a series of questions and clues. Companies can also form teams of four and compete against other corporate teams as a part of the scavenger hunt's "Corporate Challenge." The winning team will receive a prize, and the winning corporate team will receive a traveling trophy and a prize.

Additional activities on the evening's agenda will include a silent auction and raffle, live music, dancing, food and beverages, all of which are included in the ticket price.

The chairperson of the 1998 "An Uncommon Evening" event is Mary Hlavin of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, Oak Brook Terrace.

This year's theme for "An Uncommon Evening" will be "Mad Science." The event targets and attracts Chicago's young professionals ranging from 25 to 40 years old.

In 1996, "An Uncommon Evening" raised $46,000 and had an attendance of 750. Guests enjoyed music by Chicago's Ralph Covert and the Bad Examples, several silent auction prizes including Chicago Bulls tickets and round trip airline tickets, and a raffle to win two round trip tickets to Amsterdam.

For more information on the Museum of Science and Industry Kinetic Council's 1998 "An Uncommon Evening" event, contact Hugh Mathis at the Museum at (773) 947-4172.

The Museum of Science and Industry is one of the largest science museums in the U.S. with 14 acres of exhibits including a 727 airplane, a replica of a coal mine, a five story Omnimax theater, and a captured WWII German submarine. Housed in the only building remaining from the 1893 Columbian Exposition, the Museum is one of the top tourist destinations in Chicago and the Midwest. In 1997, over 1.6 million visitors visited Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

As if he truly thought his Nets could get that far—alive. Yes, the Nets were feeling spunky with Van Horn back from the flu. And though Cassell's groin wasn't healed, he wanted to play, too. Their fans were pumped and ready for the home fight to begin, And celebs like Billy Crystal rooted for the Nets to win.

As the Bulls stepped on the Nets' home court, they heard loud shouts and jeers. But that was just New Jersey's coach, preparing his team's ears. Calipari gave his team a talk, in his loud Jersey style, Yelling, "Stick their *#!/* Air Jordans up their nose. And don't forget to smile!"

Well, the game began quite normally—both teams had come to play. And the Nets might still be in it, had it gone some other way. But it soon became apparent, from the first time Michael shot, That the Bulls would not be losing to some young New Jersey snots.

There was ease in Michael's manner as he neared the three point line. He wore his black Air Jordan shoes — "DA MAN" was lookin' fine! And then, despite the noisy crowd, Mike barely broke a sweat. Just pumped his wrist and faded back and SWISH—nothin' but net.

It was only the beginning, for "DA MAN" was in "THE ZONE", Every time the ball would touch his hands, the crowd would start to groan. He'd SWISH it left, he'd SWISH it right, it didn't matter where. (Not bad for someone 35 who hasn't got no hair.)

From the floor seats to skyboxes, there arose a whiny roar: "Refs give you special treatment!" "You're a ball hog!" "Glory whore!" "Retire, Michael Jordan!" shrieked one man, as Mike found net. Jordan placed a finger to his lips and whispered,

"Shhh. Not yet."

He showed Nets fans what Bulls fans know, one very simple fact: The Bulls team packs a weapon, and that weapon's name ain't Shaq. It ain't Karl, or Pat or Charles, it ain't Keith or Tim or Penny. It's "DA MAN", and when he's in his zone? There's no defense. Not any.

Yes, he gave those Nets no mercy, as he whipped them on the floor, And with help from Rodman and Burrell, the Nets were bruised and sore. By the time the buzzer sounded, and the game was finally done, It was Bulls: One Hundred Sixteen. And the Nets: One Hundred One.

While the story doesn't end here—and the second round begins— Still I feel we need to savor every game and every win. For each one could be the last time (when it is—you'll hear me moan), The last chance to watch the miracle... Of Jordan—in the zone.

Questions or comments for humorist Donna Abear can be sent to Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030.

MOVIE REVIEW

Washington, Lee win the 'Game'

It's only fitting that the NBA's most famous and omnipresent basketball fan, Spike Lee, should make a movie about his favorite sporting subject.

Denzel Washington and Lee are no strangers to fine film making as witness the many awards their movies have garnered.

By putting their talents together again, they have come up with another winner in "He Got Game," the story of an African American father and son; the top high school hoops expert in the country, embroiled in the mega monied world of today's cage scene, both collegiate and professional.

We learn how high the hoops stakes are when the father, Washington, a convicted murderer, is released from jail by the "Big Apple's" governor and given seven days to convince his son, well-played by Milwaukee Bucks Guard Ray Allen, to go to the Gov's alma mater. If Washington is successful, the Gov promises to give him time off for such "good behavior."

We are all aware of the big money and the scheming that awaits good athletes today, but Lee puts us right smack dab in the middle of the sleazy bidding for this boy's ability to slam dunk, as well as the bidding for his forgiveness and love.

Washington is no pretty boy in this flick, allowing us a glimpse inside the soul of this sad and defeated man with a harden face and a bad afro.

Grasping at what he sees as his last chance, he sets about regaining a rapport with his 18-year-old son, Jesus.

We've all heard of stage mothers. In "Game," Washington is a "court father" so to speak, a man who longed to become a professional basketball player, trying to live up to those expectations by teaching his son to be a better player than he ever dreamed he could be, and then letting his bent for violence come between them.

Despite what we all know, it's unbelievable that the ability to get ball through a hoop at will, can make someone a "God" whose every wish is the command of college's and NBA scouts. This is Lee's version of the intricate machinations that make up the best bet for an African American who dreams of riches and fame.

A father and son squaring off in a game of One On One is the underlying theme of "Game," as they delve into their relationship, in fact we actually see them physically go to it at the film's climax.

Lee doesn't like women very much if we are to believe the underlying current of the movie that represents the female as either one for hire and the hooker with a heart of gold.

We give this "R" rated movie five out of five stars, this kind of power makes it a "must see." —By Gloria Davis

Denzel Washington stars in Spike Lee's film, "He Got Game," a story of a father and son embroiled in the world of basketball.

15th annual Chicago Blues Festival recognizes the classic blues

The 15th Annual Chicago Blues Festival, the largest free admission Blues festival in the world, will take place Thursday, June 4, through Sunday, June 7, in Grant Park along Chicago's lakefront.

This year's festival will examine the classic status of the Blues, which commonly refers to the women vocalists of the twenties and the piano styles of Jimmy Yancy, as well as the development of the Chicago Blues combination both pre and post World War II. This is most evident in the 1998 centennial celebration of Beulah Sippie Wallace, Jimmy Yancy and Dr. Clayton.

The 15th Annual Chicago Blues Festival will be preceded by a month-long series of free activities and events. Highlights include musical performances at local Blues venues, and documentary films, discussions and performances celebrating the evolution of Blues music and accomplishments of Blues artists.

The 15th Annual Chicago Blues Festival is presented by the City of Chicago along with various sponsors.

Erickson receives national honors

Krista Erickson is making a difference in the lives of those with disabilities

For Krista Erickson of Northbrook, making a difference is the only thing that matters. That is one of the many reasons she was honored by Recording for the Blind & Dyslexic (RFB&D) at the nonprofit organization's National Achievement Awards dinner, which was held March 30 in New York City.

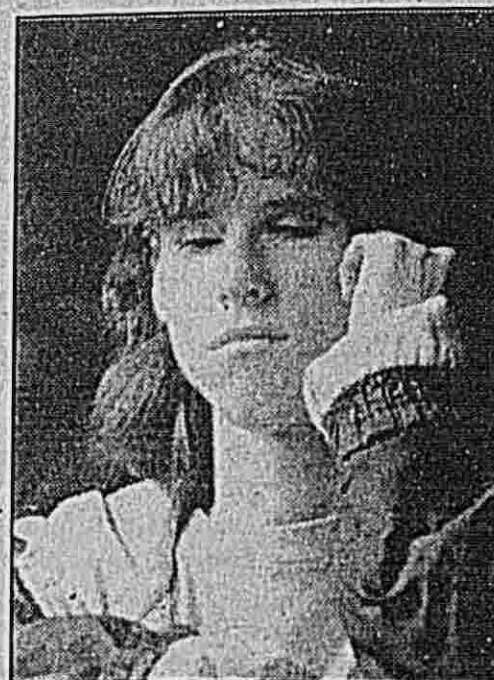

Erickson was honored with one of the three Mary P. Oenslager Scholastic Achievement Awards, presented to outstanding college seniors who are blind or visually impaired. She was joined by five other recipients to receive educational and service awards given to students who are blind or learning-disabled. Actor Tony Randall served as Master of Ceremonies for RFB&D, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary of providing taped and computerized texts to students and professionals with print disabilities.

Growing up, Erickson's parents taught her and her twin brother to respect others and recognize the importance of community service. Erickson, who is blind, has learned that lesson well. She has taught braille to others, rehabilitated flood-damaged homes and volunteered in soup kitchens and homeless shelters. And, as an undergraduate at Eastern Illinois University, she became involved in working for justice and peace with an on-campus group, the Haiti Connection.

When Erickson experienced frustrations on campus stemming from her disability, she never gave up or got angry. Instead, she helped organize the Disabled Students Union on campus, which is still active. The group gives a unified voice to disabled students and provides input to the university administration on how to better provide for disabled students' needs.

Having graduated with a 3.75 GPA and a degree in sociology, Erickson remains as active as ever. This summer, she traveled to Mexico as part of an organization that examined disabilities issues for the people in that country. Currently, she is transferring her graduate course work in peace studies from Notre Dame to the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminary, where she plans to continue using RFB&D books. "I have always been impressed with the efficiency of RFB&D and the quality of the recorded texts," she says.

Erickson plans to make peace studies and "the pursuit of justice" the focus of her life's work.

RFB&D is a national nonprofit organization headquartered in Princeton, N.J., with 32 recording studios nationwide. In Illinois, there are two units supporting five studios total. The Chicago unit, located at 18, South Michigan Avenue, supports its main recording studio, as well as studios at the University of Chicago and in Winnetka. The Palos-Orland unit, located at 9612C W. 143rd Street in Orland Park, supports its main studio as well as its West Suburban Branch in Naperville.

For information on RFB&D, contact its national headquarters at (800) 803-7201. For more information on volunteer opportunities in Illinois, contact the Chicago unit at (312) 236-8715 or the Palos-Orland unit at (708) 349-9356.

Organ donation saves 3,000 Illinois lives since '92

More than 3,000 people in Illinois await lifesaving organ transplants, and thousands more would benefit from tissue transplants. Every day, 10 Americans die while waiting for an available organ. Through the generosity of others, however, many of these people can be saved. Since 1992, more than 3,000 lives have been saved through organs recovered by the Regional Organ Bank of Illinois. Becoming a donor is easy, but it is first important to understand the process of organ and tissue donation.

Organ and tissue donations can be used in different ways. Many organs (such as hearts, lungs, kidneys and livers) and tissues (such as skin, bones, cartilage and corneas) can be transplanted into waiting recipients.

When organs become available, the donation process must move quickly to ensure the survival of the organ being donated. Organs must be prepared for the transplantation as soon as the donor is pronounced "brain dead," meaning that there is a complete loss of brain function, which is the legal definition of death in Illinois. In some cases, however, donations can be made by healthy, living donors, such as with a kidney or bone marrow. When the donor is ready and the recipient identified, the donated organ is respectfully removed from the donor and transported to the site of the transplant surgery.

Recipients are chosen based on a number of criteria, such as need, length of waiting time and blood and tissue type. Once a match is made, the recipient is prepared for surgery, where the diseased organ is replaced by the healthy donor organ. Physicians make every effort to use all donations, although in some instances extreme old age or existing disease might not allow donation to occur. Organs that would not benefit a recipient can, however, be used for research purposes.

Anyone 18 years of age or older and of sound mind may become a donor.

Becoming a donor is simple, especially in Illinois. Donors may simply fill out a properly witnessed donor card, which can be provided by a number of organizations, than make family members aware of this decision. Next-of-kin consent is generally required before donation occurs, so it is crucial that family members understand this decision.

Through the efforts of the Illinois' Secretary of State's office, all Illinois residents have the option of joining the Donor Registry, which documents a person's intentions about organ/tissue donation using the driver's license and ID card database. When an Illinois resident applies for a driver's license ID card, the applicant is asked if he/she intends to sign the donor portion on the back of the license/ID card. A "Y" or "N" will then be imprinted on the front of the card. This database is accessible only to organ procurement personnel, coroners, law enforcement personnel and the county medical examiner.

If an individual decides not to remain an organ/tissue donor, the donor card can simply be destroyed. If the donor has used the driver's license as the donor card, the individual needs only to contact the Secretary of State's office. Becoming an organ donor is simple and can potentially help save lives. For more information, see the "Life Goes On" web site at <http://www.sos.state.il.us> or talk to your doctor. The Regional Organ Bank of Illinois can also provide donor cards upon request. They can be contacted at 1-800-545-GIFT or information can be obtained through their web site at <http://www.rob.org>.

TV show '20/20' features Dr. Lack's 'no facelift-facelift'

As seen Friday, March 13, on the network television show 20/20, a startling new procedure promises to turn back the proverbial clock to create a sleeker, more youthful face, neck and jawline. In the past, the only way to achieve a more youthful face, neck and jawline. In the past, the only way to achieve a more youthful face was to have a full facelift; subjecting patients to the risks of general anesthesia, large incisions, and a great deal of down time.

Using a combination of Tumescence Liposculpture and CO2 Laser, this extraordinary new technique requires only a minimal incision, which allows it to heal more rapidly, and patients can be back at work in just days. As a close colleague of the surgeon featured on 20/20, and cited by the show as one of the few other surgeons in the country performing this procedure, Dr. Edward B. Lack, a 20-year practitioner at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, can effortlessly create the effect of a facelift with a procedure that is much less invasive.

A well-defined jawline and a sleek, long neck are the hallmarks of a youthful appearance. The effects of gravity over time tend to loosen the muscles under the neck and jawline, and pull down the structures of the face. For some, it is genetically predetermined and appears in youth as well as with the aging process. Increased fat deposits in the neck and jaw area produce a tired, haggard look and can cause people to appear heavier and older than they really are. Liposculpture of muscles of the jawline, can help patients to regain a sleeker, more youthful appearance. Performed as a comfortable outpatient procedure without the need for general anesthesia, recovery is rapid and any visible signs quickly become virtually invisible.

As a member of the Board of Examiners for the American Board of Cosmetic Surgery, Dr. Lack has been intimately involved in shaping the future of Cosmetic Surgery in the United States. With leading edge vision and skill, he is one of an elite group of surgeons called upon to provide advanced training in both tumescence and ultrasonic liposuction as well as Laser Skin Resurfacing to physicians from all over the world. One of the early pioneers in Ultrasonic Assisted Liposculpture, Dr. Lack has been responsible for providing many technical innovations with results that few can duplicate. Dr. Edward B. Lack is board certified in Dermatologic Cosmetic Surgery by the American Board of Cosmetic Surgery, as well as the American Board of Dermatology.

A 12-year-old hero...

Dr. Singer, My son is 12 and having a very difficult time right now. Recently, he stuck up for another child in his class. I guess this other child is considered to be a "nerd" by the other kids. I hate that term, but I figure you need to know all the details. Anyway, this kid was being picked on fiercely and my son got in the way of it and tried to protect this kid. Needless to say, the kids turned their venom on my son as well as this other kid and now both are miserable.

You need to know that both my husband and I are incredibly proud of our son for doing this. He came to the aid of another human being even though it might cost him something and we believe that to be a terrific gift for all of us. It's very difficult though for our son to understand that

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer, Psy.D.

Any thoughts?

Signed...Proud mom.

Dear Proud,

I agree with you wholeheartedly. Your child is one terrific kid! What a selfless, caring gesture! We've all been picked on at one time in our life or another and know how bad it is.

Your son had enough empathy and concern for someone other than himself to put himself on the line. I would go as far as saying that this is "hero" material. I write all the time about how we need to learn to start being more considerate of each other and start watching out for each other and I am thrilled to hear that there is a child out there doing this very thing.

If you haven't already, you need to let this child know how you feel. You need to really push that so that he can feel like his decision was a good one. He also needs to know that anyone who makes fun of others is usually pretty insecure inside anyway. The opinion of a kid like that should mean nothing!

I know that in the real world, the popular kids can tend to also be the most uncaring and everyone wants to be with them. Your son has the ability to think critically and to not follow the crowd. That takes a lot of inner strength and direction. He is a far better person than those other kids who engage in using their energy to pick on others.

Your son also needs to know that many times these things tend to become old news after some time has gone by. If he doesn't consistently respond to the comments, the bullies will not be getting any attention from him and will go elsewhere to find new "prey." He needs to understand though, that ignoring once and then responding again isn't going to eliminate the problem. He needs to ignore consistently over a period of time. Of course, if there is physical harm involved in any way, adults need to be brought into this and safety needs to be the number one concern.

Please show him this column and let him know that I think he's one in a million. We hear all the time on the news about the violent, horrible things kids do. It is so nice and refreshing to hear about a kid who is a hero!

'Four stages of caregiving,' 'You are an artist' are new features at Eldercare web site

What should you do when you're worried you'll be caring for an aging relative in the next year? How about after you've been a caregiver for many years. What do you need to do then.

Answers to these questions are provided at a new feature at the Caregiving Online web site, at <http://www.caregiving.com>. The feature, The 4 Stages of Caregiving, and another, "You are an Artist" are recent additions to the web site, which helps persons caring for an aging relative, located at <http://www.caregiving.com>.

"We added these features as a result of the many E-mails we receive through our web site," said Denise M. Brown, editor and publisher, Caregiving newsletter, and webmaster, Caregiving Online. "We hear from family caregivers regularly who struggle to find the help they need and who struggle to maintain their own identities, separate from their caregiving roles. We think our two new features address these two very important caregiver concerns."

The Four Stages of Caregiving categorizes the caregiving experience in order to guide caregivers to services they may need—depending on their level of involvement. For instance, in the first stage, the Anticipatory Caregiver (someone who expects to be involved with eldercare responsibilities in the next 12 to 18 months) will concentrate on getting the legal paperwork in order.

The remaining three stages are: The Freshman Caregiver, The Entrenched Caregiver and The Transitional Caregiver. To better illustrate how a caregiver moves through the Four Stages, Brown included two examples—a wife caring for husband, and a daughter caring for mother. Through the two examples, Brown shows how the caregiving role changes, as the caregiver passes through each stage, and how the needs may differ in each stage.

Reaction from web site visitors to the new feature has already been positive. "We added the feature and within hours I was receiving E-mails indicating how helpful the stages are," Brown said. "The visitors felt comfort in knowing that what they experience is not necessarily unusual. Caregivers like to be reassured that their experiences are normal."

The second new feature, You are an Artist, encourages caregivers to pick up their tool of choice—paintbrush, sewing needle, tambo—encourage caregivers to participate and enjoy an art—and in doing so, re-discover their own unique self." Tips on how to getting the art going are given by Joanne Starzic, an artist who teaches how to use art as a spiritual healer. Caregivers also are encouraged to involve their care recipients in creative expressions. Creations by caregivers and care recipients will be posted at the web site, at the Gallery section.

Caregiving newsletter, a monthly publication, is available by subscription. For further information please write to Tad Publishing Co., P.O. Box 224, Park Ridge, IL 60068.

Digital radiographs eliminate exposure to radiation

A new x-ray system that uses 90 percent less radiation than traditional x-ray units and computer technology instead of conventional film that must be developed is revolutionizing dentistry.

The new technology is called Computed Dental Radiography and was developed by David Schick, a New York engineer. "This technology gives the dentist and the dental specialist more freedom to x-ray with greater frequency and less patient health risk," he says. "Before there were limitations, the now the CDR digital x-ray technology gives dentists a more valuable and versatile diagnostic tool."

The system uses a sensor that is placed in the mouth where it reacts to the x-ray emission in the same manner that a video camera records light to form images. The x-ray image is then transmitted from the sensor to a computer screen. The dentist or technician can then enhance, enlarge and isolate trouble spots with the mere click of a mouse.

"Patient education-wise, it can't be beat," says Michael Miles, DDS, an endodontist who practices in Wausau, Wisc. "Patients are just floored by this technology. They're amazed that the image is so big and clear that they can see it and better understand the diagnosis. With CDR systems, we can even make a color copy of the image of their teeth and patients can take it home with them."

The CDR images are produced instantly, are clearer than film images, and are safer for patients due to their dramatically reduced exposure to radiation. Another significant feature of CDR systems is that they are environmentally responsible.

"Dental offices handle and dispose of large quantities of hazardous chemicals each day to process x-ray film," Mr. Schick says. "The costs of hazardous waste disposal are high and the risk to human health and the environment can be significant. The digital radiography system makes a significant contribution to the practice of dentistry and an even more important contribution to the health of the environment."

The next item to be added to the product line will be an intra-oral video camera that can be interfaced with the original CDR system for computer based imaging.

Schick Technologies is the largest manufacturer of digital x-ray systems in the world, and the only U.S. company in the market.

Preparing garden beds for the summer

Spring is flying by, and there are zillions of things to do to prepare for the summer months. One of the main tasks this month should be turning your flower and vegetable beds over and incorporating lots of compost and well-rotted manure into the beds. This past weekend I worked on my perennial flower bed. I enlarged it by some three feet or so. It was a good weekend to do that, being the weather was cool and a bit on the dreary side. It's rough to turn over sod when the sun is beating down on you. Last year I had a huge compost pile just behind my veggie garden, and that lovely compost was added to both my perennial flower and annual flower beds.

If you have started seedlings indoors, remember you must harden them off before setting them out in the garden. By "hardening off" I mean you need to set them in a sheltered location outdoors at longer intervals each day, so they become acclimated to the outdoor temperatures and conditions. If you were to plant them, without hardening off, they would go into "shock" and die. Speaking of seedlings, I am really impressed by how great mine look. They have the healthiest stems and foliage that I have ever seen. I believe this is going to be an outstanding year for my vegetables. I did save seeds from the veggies, that I grew last year (among them many heirloom tomatoes) and I had record breaking germination. Remember to keep young seedlings well watered, and do not set tomatoes and other warm loving plants out until Memorial Day.

GARDEN JOURNAL

You can direct some annual and perennial flower seeds at this time. Mark them with garden markers, so you remember where you planted what. Believe me, many times I did forget what I planted. It is easy to do, especially if you plant a lot in one afternoon. Now is the time to fertilize your perennial beds with a good organic fertilizer such as fish emulsion and well rotted chicken manure. Fertilize roses now also. Always make sure plants are watered well before fertilizing this will avoid burning them, even if using liquid fertilizer. Fertilize seedlings with diluted applications. Time applications with the natural growth cycles of the plant. It is a good time to prune shrubs and hedges. Prune suckers, weak branches and branches growing in the wrong direction.

If you are not composting, I urge you to start. It is really easy to do. Just start by saving all organic material (leaves, grass clippings, twigs, food scraps (no meat). Layer the material with soil, and turn over to create heat and decomposition. You can even buy compost starter that will speed up the entire process. Since I have been composting, my gardens grow much better, and I do not waste anything. I can't tell you how many worms dwell in my beds. That's what you want for the healthiest soil. You can even dig a big hole and bury your kitchen waste right into your vegetable and flower beds. Anything is better than doing nothing. That is nature's way of giving back to the earth. It renews itself. Enjoy working outside. Peace.

BUILDING: Congregation builds fellowship, church addition to grow each month.

Along with being the senior pastor of the church, president of the Dayspring Bible College and host of the church's broadcast programs, Scudder has guided five trips to the Holy Land and several mission trips to India, Thailand and the Philippines. He is an active board member of the Independent Fundamental Churches of America.

He attributes the church's growth from a handful of people in 1972 to 800 by 1998 to the church's basic principles. "We teach the word of God, but don't go in for spectacular things," he said. "We focus on consistent Christian life."

The members' commitment and dedication are evident in their willingness to voluntarily construct the new building. "Some members spent their vacation time to do this," said Clifford.

He estimated that the members saved the church approximately $5 million by building the new facility themselves.

"We are very proud of them," said Scudder.

Custom flexibility

Home builder offers unique, versatile floor plans to meet customer needs at Gurnee's Kingsport Woods

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

Family tradition. That's how Barry Talbert of Gurnee's Kingsport Woods Development explains his business philosophy. Talbert is the third generation to build homes for the more than 50 year old, Meister/Neiberg corporation, builders who have always had a vision.

"We believe in working with the home owner to construct a home that best serves their family," Talbert said. "Many builders advertise that they will customize. With us custom flexibility is something we encourage."

Talbert says Meister/Neiberg has always believed in putting its customer first.

"We are not a large scale production builder," Talbert said. "We build smaller, developments which become unique communities."

A drive through Kingsport Woods easily illustrates the uniqueness of the community. Kingsport Woods features 60 single-family homes on quarter-acre lots in Gurnee off Washington Street just east of Rte. 45. The development offers three models each with three elevation options, but unlike most housing developments in the mid-$200,000 range, no two homes in Kingsport Woods look alike.

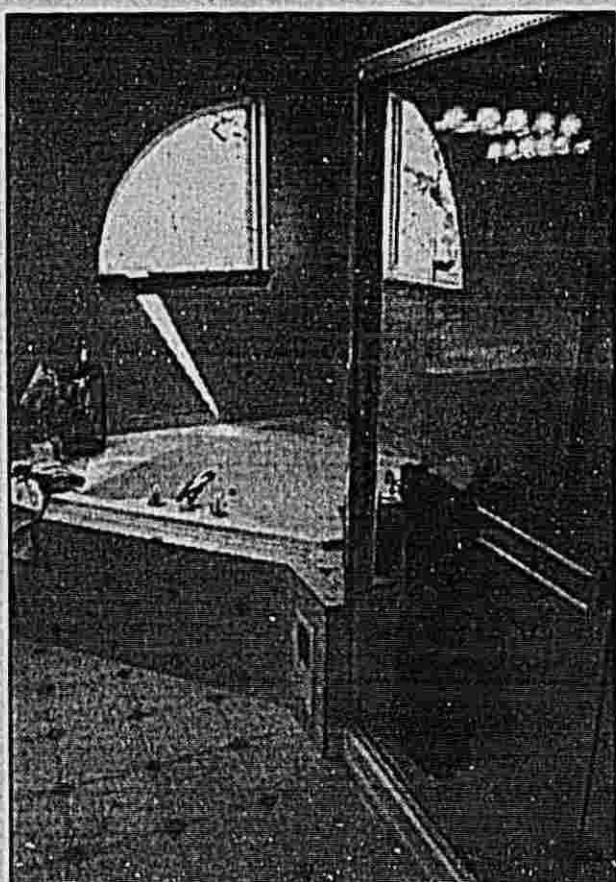

"Our philosophy of offering custom flexibility encourages a more unique community," Talbert said. "We offer tremendous flexibility in exterior design and interior floor plans from contemporary to traditional. We don't just allow changes in our plans, we actually encourage people to make them."

Kingsport offers three model floor plans featuring three to five bedrooms and 2 1/2 to 3 baths ranging from 2,236 to 2,930 square feet and priced from $245,900 to $269,900.

All homes include as standard an attached three-car garage, full basement, air conditioning, fireplace, sodded front and side yards with two large trees, ceramic tile floors, Spacemaker microwave, 50-gallon water heater, and 10-year new home warranty program.

The builder is known for the aesthetic details he adds to his homes. For instance, archways, plant shelves, decorative niches, second floor overlooks, dual staircases, nine-foot ceilings, and half walls with detailing add architectural excitement to each home.

The award-winning Redwood is the most popular model featuring five bedrooms, three full baths, a full basement and a three car garage. Contemporary in design, it boasts over 2,900

The Redwood master bathroom features a sunken whirlpool tub and separate shower as well as a double vanity and private commode area.

FLEXIBILITY: Builder customizes homes square-foot and is priced from $269,900.

The Redwood features a two-story foyer which opens through arches onto a combination living room and dining room with bay window. The spacious kitchen has a center island, planning desk and pantry. A dramatic two-story family room has a fireplace and is next to a study which can become a fifth bedroom. Upstairs, there is huge master bedroom with an optional sitting room and two walk-in closets. Three more bedrooms and a dramatic overlook into the family room complete the house.

"The Redwood has been extremely well-received," Talbert said. "We have built it with a side-loading garage, moved the family room fireplace to the full rear wall and add lofts and studies in place of bedrooms.

"One customer bought our Redwood model but fell in love with the Oak exterior elevation, which is an all-brick traditional look; so we changed the front of their home to suit their taste," the builder said.

Featuring three bedrooms, a loft or fourth bedroom, 2 1/2 baths, a first floor study, and a dual staircase, the Willow also has a basement, central air conditioning and a fireplace, and is priced at $245,900.

A living room with vaulted ceilings and two-tier picture window located next to a dining room makes the Willow a great house for entertaining. A fireplace is the focal point of the family room, while the kitchen has a sunny breakfast area opening into a bright morning room. A huge master bedroom has a walk-in closet. There are also two other bedrooms. A loft overlooks the living room and hallway which can turn into a fourth bedroom.

The Willow is the smallest of the three model homes at Kingsport Woods, however, it is full of charm and architectural detail. A unique feature of the home is the dual staircase.

"We have always tried to incorporate as many unique architectural details into each of the home models as possible," Talbert said. "It is another reason why we stand-out from the production builder."

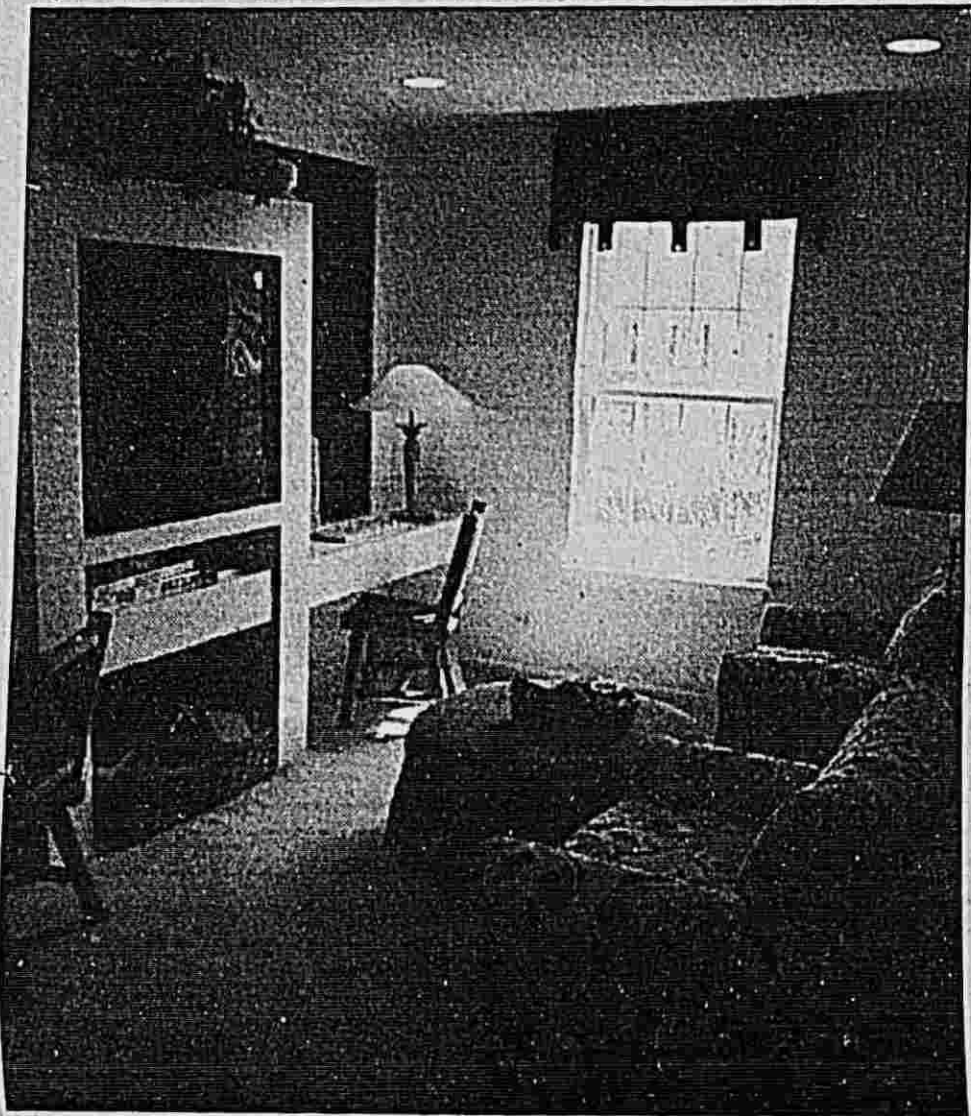

The Oak is a traditional four bedroom with den, 2 1/2 bath home with 2,592 square feet of living space and a price tag of $255,900.

Centrally located, the two-story entryway opens to the living room on one side and the dining room on the other. A spacious family room with fireplace is in the back of the house. The kitchen features an island, breakfast area and pantry. Upstairs, the master bedroom has a his and her walk-in closet, a deluxe master bath and three other bedrooms. The three-car garage can be transformed into a bonus room with a two-car garage.

Top right, a grand staircase leads to the foyer of the Redwood where the dining room/living room is located near the entrance of the home. Notice the unique arches in the structure, they are standard in the home.

Left, in the Oak model, this second floor family area can provide a study and gathering area for the children or be converted into an additional bedroom or home office. Some homebuyers have used a half-wall and provided an open view to the foyer. Below, the family room of the Redwood, again incorporates dramatic arches and full, unique windows as standard home features.

"The Oak is more traditional with a very formal dining room and dramatic foyer," Talbert said. "It was designed for the family who likes the traditional feel as more than the open, contemporary design of many of today's models."

With successful sales over the last year, there are only 15 homes remaining in the community. Five homesites back up to the wooded conservancy area boasting mature trees and wetlands.

"Once these areas are gone, buyers will have to look hard and long to find a wooded home site in this price range where they can have so much choice and flexibility in floor plan design," said Talbert.

At Kingsport Woods, Talbert prides himself in the expert service he offers from sale through warranty.

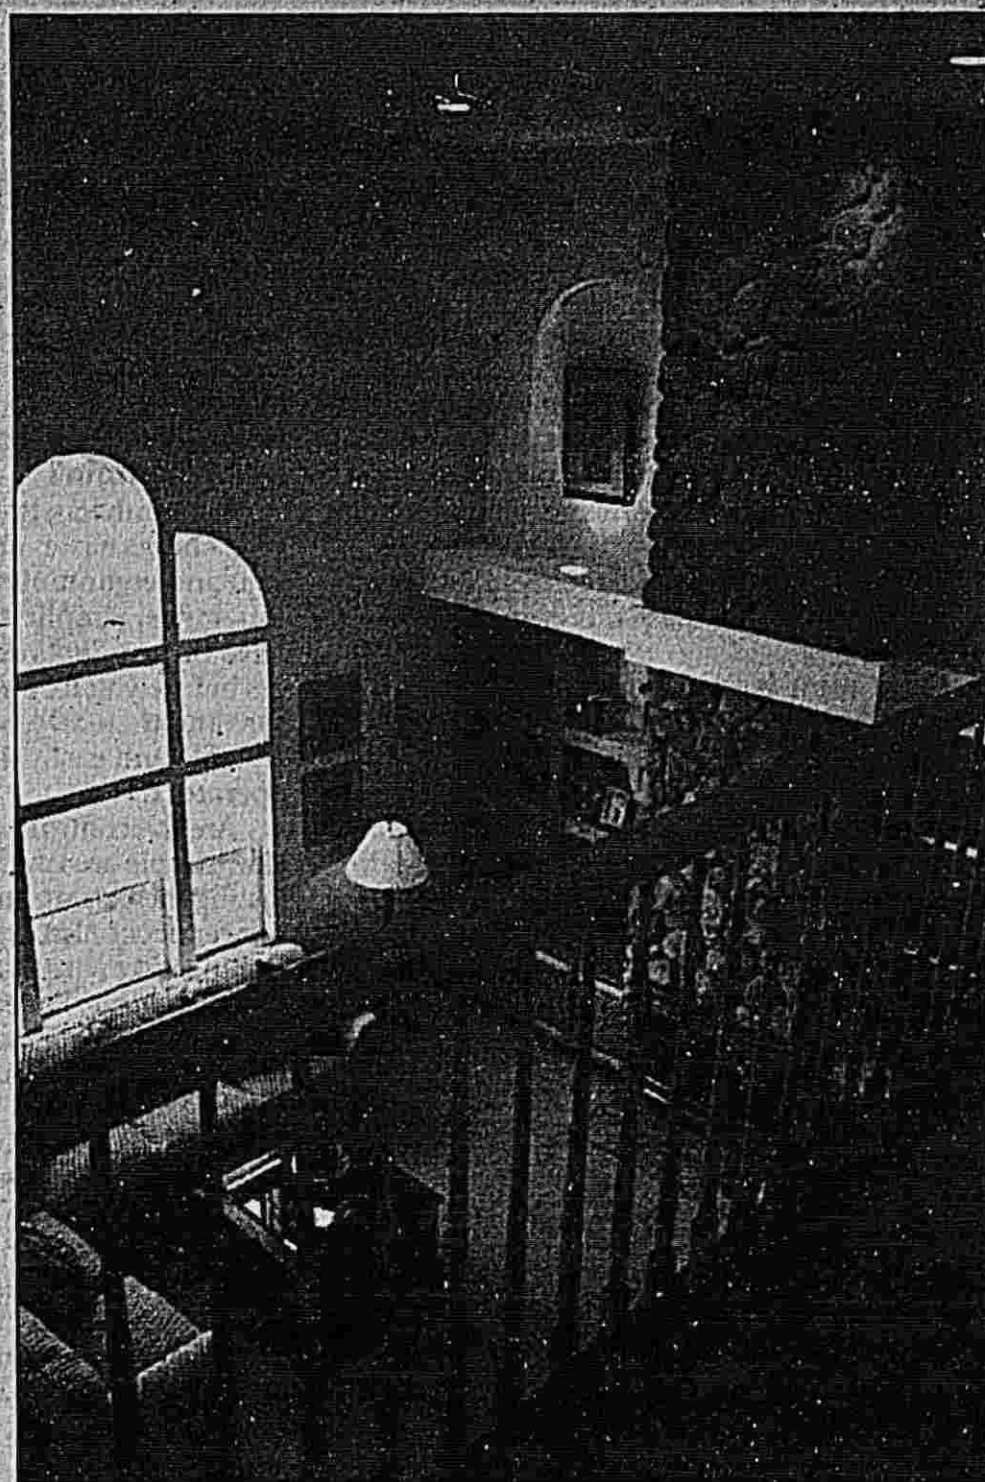

"At our past and current communities we always have an owner on-site at all times. That allows us to be more flexible and more responsive to our customer's needs," he said.

Meister-Neiberg is a longtime Chicago-area developer building thousands of single-family homes and multi-family homes in the Chicagoland area since 1954. Kingsport Woods is their first Lake County development.

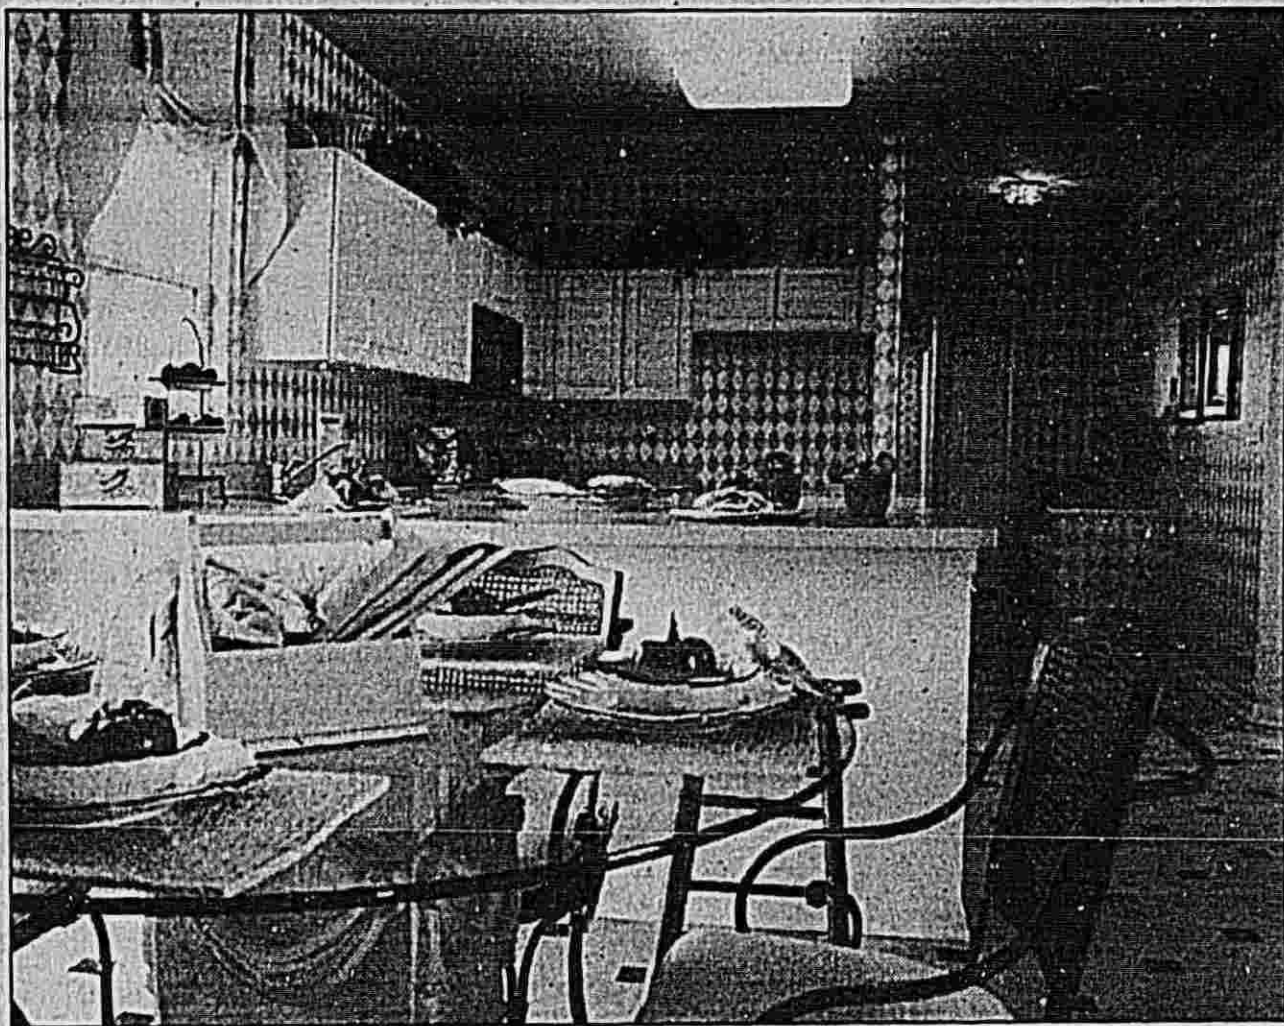

For more information, call 548-5464.

Above, the Willow features a dual staircase at the entrance to the home. The smallest of three home models at Kingsport Woods, the Willow has many unique architectural features such as exterior columns and dramatic windows in the living/room dining room area. Below, the Oak features an eat-in-kitchen as well as the traditional formal dining room. First floor laundry and a large pantry as well as a bench seat are standard in the home.

Above, a view of the Redwood family room from the second floor. A fireplace is standard in the model. Some homebuyers have moved the fireplace to the rear wall and added windows to frame it. Kingsport Woods works with each of their homebuyers to create a unique floor plan designed to meet the needs of their family.

Ask the right questions when shopping for a tractor

Shopping for the right tractor for your yard can be confusing. There are many brands and, at first glance, they seem similar. A tractor is an investment that should last for years. To get your money's worth, Simplicity Manufacturing Inc. recommends going beyond the shiny paint to compare the design, features and quality of different models by asking these questions:

How well is it made?

Ask about the design and manufacture of the tractor to assess its quality and durability. To assure longevity, look for all-steel construction, including the hood. Also, check the tractor's frame design. For maximum durability, look for a channel frame design that has been welded for added strength. Different gauges of steel support critical stress areas, making a channel frame more rugged than the single-piece stamped frame usually found on less-expensive units.

How well does it cut?

There are three keys to a great cut: the mowing deck, the turning radius and the traction. Examine how the mowing deck is mounted on the tractor. Look for an axle-mounted mowing deck that "floats" freely and adjusts to changes in terrain. This deck mounting system follows the contours of your yard, reducing scalping and providing a smooth, even cut.

Another sign of a great cut is the ability to manicure around landscaping, which minimizes the trimming required after mowing. Look for a tractor with a tight turning radius to complete the job efficiently; one that's capable of mowing around trees and shrubs in one pass.

Finally, just like in a car, look for features that improve traction. Good traction ensures that the tractor's wheels will not slip when climbing steep inclines or mowing wet, slippery areas.

How easy is it to use and maintain?

Remember, a tractor should make your yard chores easier and less tiring. The design and ergonomics of a unit do make a difference. Simplicity suggests that you have the products demonstrated by dealers before you buy. You should sit in the seat and then ask yourself: Is the seat comfortable and easily adjustable for different operators?

Are the controls conveniently located? How simple are key operator tasks, like adjusting the cutting height or engaging the mower deck? Also, while you are at the dealership, make sure that routine maintenance truly is routine. For example, you should be able to detach the mower deck easily and without special tools.

What if the tractor needs service or you need advice?

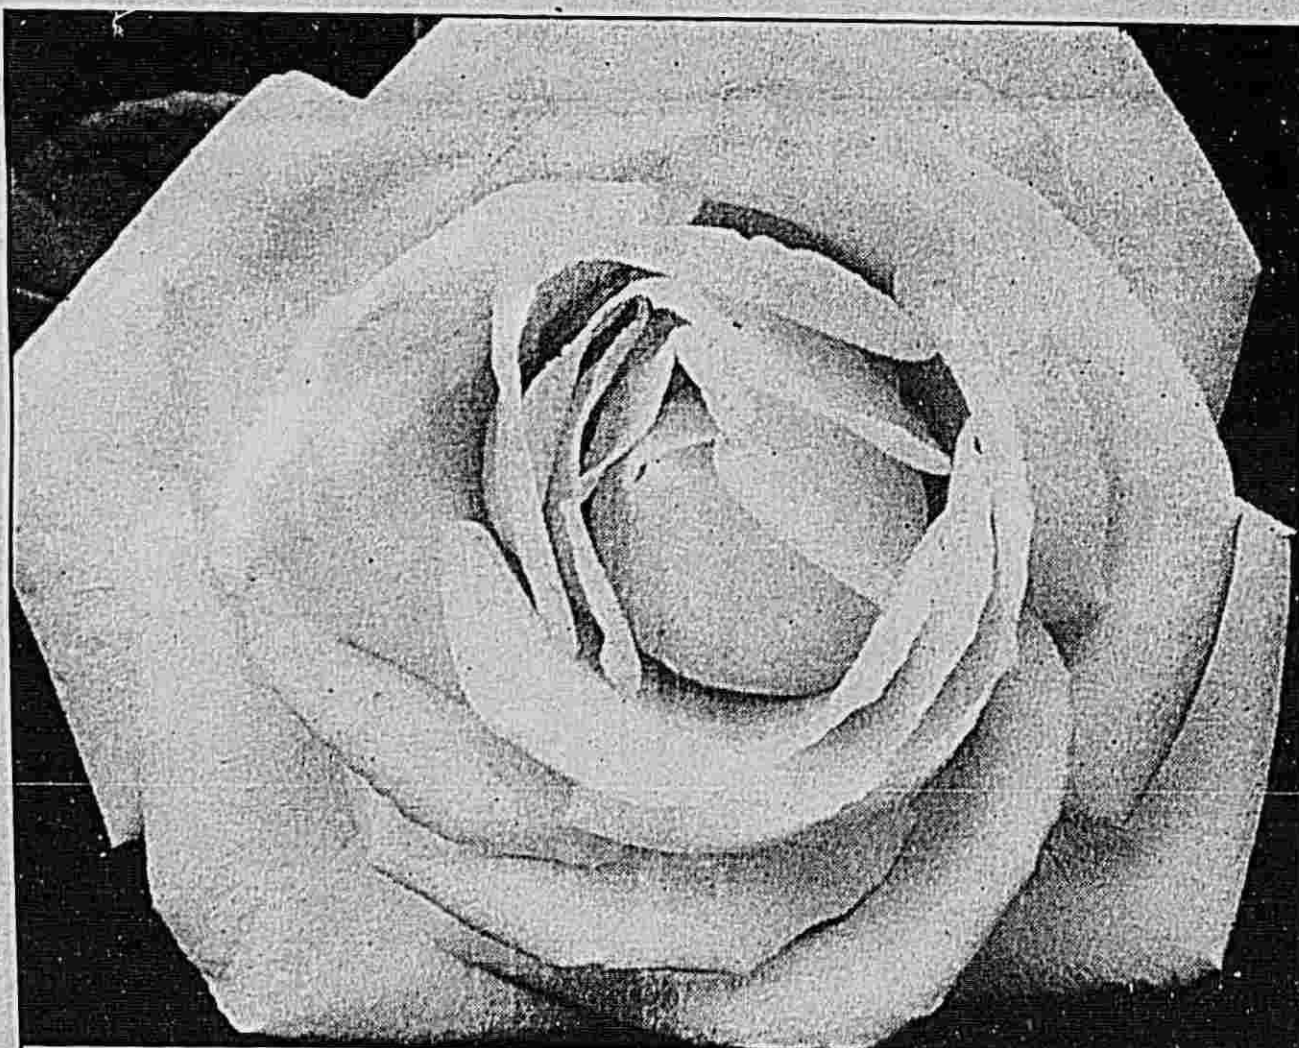

Your best assurance that the tractor you select will meet your needs and continue to work for you in the future is to buy it from a knowledgeable, servicing dealer. A dealer has the ability to counsel and advise about a number of lines and knows which companies provide the best parts service. He will, himself, have a well-stocked inventory of service parts and accessories.

You will find that servicing dealers are able to offer trade-in allowances and credit or financing packages. Additionally, they will properly prepare the unit for the required task, allowing the operator to achieve maximum performance and longevity from the equipment.

For more information, call 1-800-987-5296, or visit the company's Web site at <http://www.simplicitymfg.com>.

When purchasing a tractor, be sure routine service areas are easy to access, and consider who will help you when repairs go beyond routine.

Easy-to-Install Outdoor Lighting Shows Off Landscape at Night

Up until a few years ago, creating a beautifully illuminated nighttime garden or a brightly lit path to your front door required a large budget and the help of a professional electrician. Today, with Outdoor Lighting kits, spectacular lighting design projects now can be achieved by any homeowner.

Low-voltage outdoor lighting is relatively easy and inexpensive to install — complete kits start around $30. The real fun, however, is deciding on an overall lighting effect and then getting the appropriate outdoor lighting products to match.

Study Nature First

To begin with, it's always a good idea to study natural light. Look at the area you wish to light both during the day and again in the moonlight. Decide which effects you prefer and plan to duplicate or enhance them.

Also, study basic lighting techniques. Up-lighting, or shining a light upward from below, is good for accenting tall or hanging objects, casting shadows, or making a small area seem larger. Downlighting imitates the natural light of the sun or moon, and is preferred for creating moods or adding depth and dimension. Sidelighting is excellent for illuminating low shrubs, paths or walkways. Used for work or play, area lighting provides soft light over a wide space. You can experiment with each technique using a flashlight to determine which best suits your needs.

For homeowners wishing to customize their layout, the lights are available from open stock bins at many retailers — you can pick the fixtures, power pack and cable that suit your needs.

Visit heaven from your own plot of earth

Nothing tastes as good as a home-cooked meal made with home-grown vegetables, especially ones that you yourself tenderly cared for, from the first delicate sprout to the last vibrant bloom.

Harvest goes on all summer long, and these easy-to-prepare recipes, courtesy of The 1998 Farmer's Almanac Gardener's Companion (Yankee), will help you make the most of your vegetable garden. The result? Your table adorned with heavenly offerings from your own little corner of the globe.

VEGETABLE LASAGNA

Serves 8

A true culinary standby that uses a layer of garden vegetables to replace the traditional sausage.

- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 3 to 4 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 12 ounces fresh mushrooms, chopped
- 2 to 3 medium zucchinis or summer squashes, chopped
- 4 cups packed chopped Swiss chard or spinach
- 9 lasagna noodles (about 8 ounces)
- 1/2 to 3/4 cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
- 2 cups low-fat cottage cheese
- 1 cup grated mozzarella cheese

- 1/4 cup chopped fresh basil, or 1 tablespoon dried
- 2 eggs
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
- 4 cups of your favorite tomato sauce

Heat oil in a large frying pan and sauté onion, garlic and mushrooms until soft. Add the zucchini and Swiss chard, cover and cook over low heat, stirring several times, for about 10 minutes, until chard is wilted and zucchini is soft. Spoon vegetables into a colander and let sit for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, cook lasagna noodles in a large pot of boiling water for 5 minutes, or until just barely tender. Drain and run under cold water to cool. Spread noodles out on clean dish towels.

Press draining vegetables gently with a large spoon to extract as much moisture as possible. In a mixing bowl, combine 1/4 cup of the Parmesan with cottage cheese, mozzarella, basil and eggs and season with salt and pepper. Spread 1/2 to 1 cup of tomato sauce on the bottom of a 9-inch-by-13-inch baking dish. Make a layer with three strips of lasagna noodles, spread half the cheese mixture over the noodles, spread half the vegetable mixture over and around the cheese, and drizzle on 1 cup of tomato sauce. Add another layer of three noodles, spread on the remaining cheese and vegetables, and drizzle on another 1 cup of tomato sauce. Top with the remaining three lasagna noodles, spread with remaining tomato sauce, and sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese. Bake in preheated 375 F oven for 45 minutes, or until bubbling. Let sit 15 minutes before cutting.

SUMMER'S-END PICKLE DELIGHT

Makes about 6 pints

This recipe can be varied according to the vegetables you have on hand.

- 2 cups sliced small cucumbers
- 2 cups chopped onions
- 2 cups quartered green tomatoes
- 2 cups chopped red or green peppers
- 2 cups cauliflower florets
- 2 cups broccoli florets
- 2 cups cut-up beans
- 1 1/2 quarts cider vinegar

Paste

- 4 tablespoons flour
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 teaspoon turmeric
  - 2 tablespoons dry mustard
- Enough cider vinegar to moisten

Place all vegetables in a large bowl, add a brine (enough to cover the vegetables) made with 1/2 cup salt to each quart of water, and let it sit overnight. The next morning, drain and rinse vegetables, and place them in a large kettle with 1 1/2 quarts cider vinegar.

Combine ingredients for the paste in a separate bowl, and stir until smooth. Bring vegetables to a boil. Stir the paste into the vegetables. Simmer for a few minutes, stirring constantly. Fill sterile pint jars to the very top, and seal at once.

GARDEN-FRESH TABBOULEH

Serves 6

- 1 cup bulgur (cracked wheat)
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 1/2 cup chopped green onions
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh mint leaves
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 large tomato, chopped
- 1/2 cup garbanzo beans, cooked

Put bulgur in a bowl and cover with boiling water; stir. Cover bowl with a towel and let stand about 1 hour, until all the water is absorbed. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover bowl and refrigerate at least 2 hours to blend the flavors. Serve tabbouleh in pita pockets or with feta cheese.

HORSE RADISH DRESSING

To prepare fresh horseradish, dig up a piece of the root, and scrub it clean; then grind it in a blender or grate it very fine by hand. Be careful of the strong odor. Add as much white vinegar as the grated root will hold without becoming runny.

- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 teaspoon prepared hot mustard or powdered mustard
- 4 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 4 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 2/3 cup cottage cheese

Whirl all ingredients in a blender. Thin as desired with a little water, and add salt to taste. Use as a hearty dressing over cabbage salad, or pour it over hot or cold cooked vegetables.

New ways to landscape with lattice

Across the country, homeowners are discovering the practicality and versatility of lattice as it makes its way off the deck and into the garden this summer.

Lattice is a framework of strips made from plastic, wood or metal that are interwoven to form beautiful patterns. It is available in a variety of classic styles and vibrant colors that complement any home.

Traditionally, lattice has graced decks, porches and patios where it provides privacy and adds a more finished appearance to outdoor areas. It also creates depth and dimension and is especially effective at capturing and centering attention.

However, the aesthetic benefits of lattice are only one part of its appeal. Try these ideas and experience the splendor of landscaping with lattice:

- Support climbing plants like roses, ivy and grapes with a trellis made from lattice.

- Protect plants from overexposure to sunlight with a lattice sun screen.

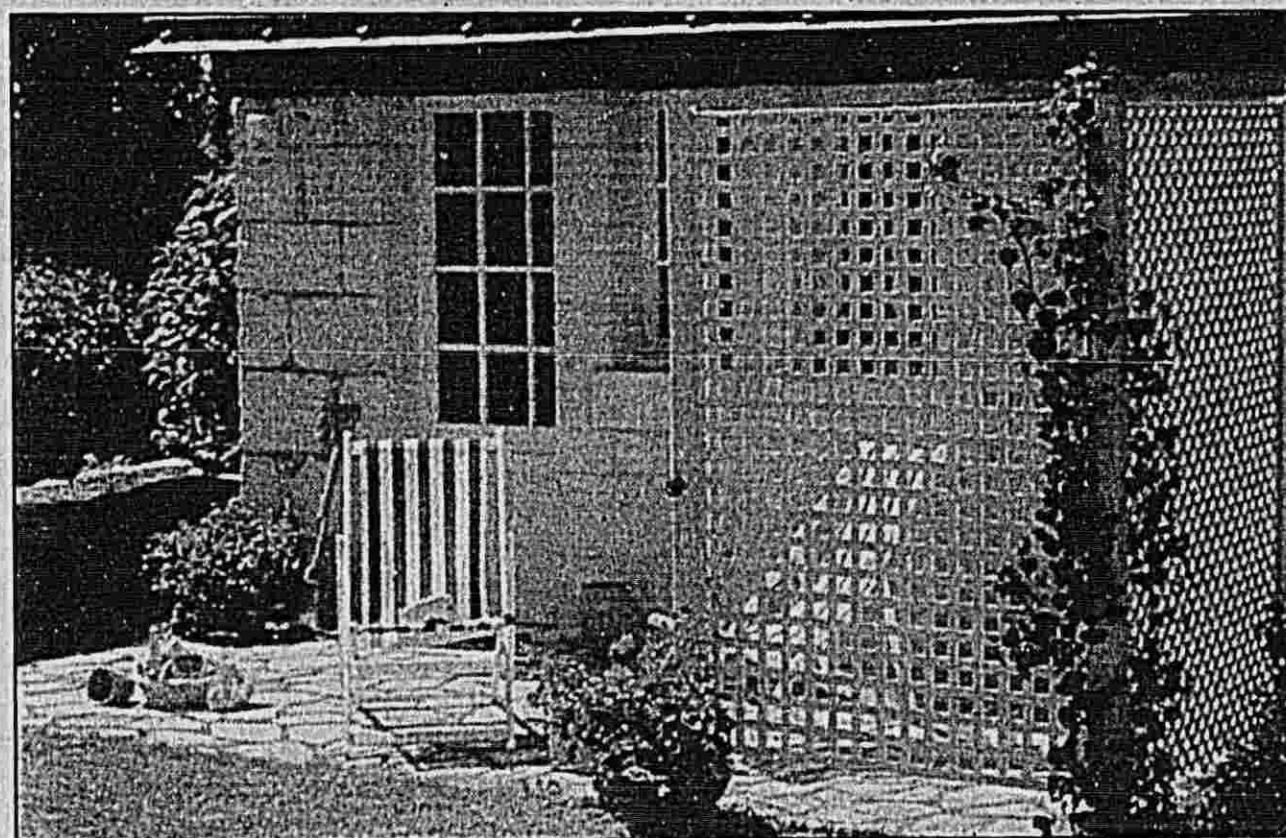

- Create an attractive edge around gardens while guarding plants from furry pests with lattice fencing.

- Hang lattice on plain walls or fences to spruce up otherwise dull facades.

- Build an arbor with lattice for added emphasis around walkways.

Landscaping with lattice is fun to do and creates eye-grabbing results. For easy installation and maintenance, try plastic lattice. Made from the same material as truck bed liners, this long-lasting lattice never needs painting. Unlike wood, plastic lattice is insect- and mildew-resistant and will not rot. It is perfect for the garden or in other areas that are watered frequently.

Libraries crippled by computer crash

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

Patrons of 24 libraries belonging to a computer consortium were given a taste of what happens when technology goes awry. Since Tuesday, April 28, these libraries have been without online catalogs, and their databases have been inaccessible.

The crash means the libraries are unable to track items in their own library or readily search for an item at another.

The affected libraries belong to Cooperative Computer Services (CCS), a library automation consortium. CCS was created by six libraries in 1975 to provide computer support.

The problem began April 28, when Geac, the Canadian vendor responsible for the consortium's computer hardware and software, was replacing a disk drive as a preventative measure. The data from the old drive couldn't be compiled onto the new one.

In an effort to recover the data, backup tapes were installed but were found to be unreadable. Now Geac is working to recover the data.

In an April 30th memo from Richard Shurman, CCS administrator, to member library administrators, he wrote, "There is a real possibility that our backup tapes are flawed and useless for data recovery. The worst case scenario is a complete loss of the database."

Without access to their databases, libraries are manually logging check outs.

Grayslake Area Public Library, a CCS member, is holding its returns in the back room until the system is back up.

"Right now we can't shelf anything because we can't let it go out until it's removed from the other patron's records," explained Administrative Librarian Roberta Thomas. "We have a back-up system so as we check out books we store the information on an in-house system."

The real headaches are created when patrons want to search for an item. Grayslake and most other libraries have done away with their card catalog systems. Grayslake maintains one master catalog for the entire library, but it isn't available to the public.

They do offer a shelf list of items, but this list doesn't include information on whether an item is checked out. If a patron is searching for a book at any of the affected libraries they should expect it to take a while until the system is repaired.

"The worst part for the patrons is we can't look things up. We can't get instantaneous information, it takes so much longer," said Thomas.

Libraries were calling each other to search for items when a patron re-

Lake County United Way honors volunteers

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

The United Way of Lake County recently honored several county residents and organizations at its Lake County Volunteer Recognition Event.

The function, which took place in April at the Allegiance Corporation in Waukegan, recognized the outstanding efforts of volunteers. An awards selection committee made up of citizens and community leaders selected the award recipients. The honorees included:

Adult Volunteer of the Year - Indirect Service: Jason L. Johnson of Grayslake

Johnson contributed 976 hours of volunteer service in nine different volunteer leadership positions including Student Senate president, College of Lake County Student Trustee, and Vice Chairperson of the Illinois Community College Board—Student Advisory Committee.

Special Focus Volunteer of the Year - Increasing Long-Term Independence and Self-Sufficiency: John E. DeWolf of Libertyville

DeWolf volunteered 360 hours in 1997 providing reading assistance to developmentally disabled individuals and assisting with United Way client functions such as dances and picnics.

Special Focus Volunteer of the Year - Providing Emergency Food Shelter and Crisis Management Services: Patrick Gaughan of Island Lake

Gaughan serves as site manager of an emergency shelter in Wauconda managed by the Public Action to Deliver Shelter program. He visits the shelter each week to supervise the operation and ensure that new volunteers are trained.

Agency Volunteer Program of the Year: Connection Resource Services, Inc. of Libertyville

This agency operates a crisis and referral hotline, a student hotline, emergency shelters for homeless individuals, a resource center and temporary housing to assist individuals without shelter to regain self-sufficiency.

Group Project of the Year - Youth Oak Grove Junior High School Seventh Graders of Green Oaks

Ninety-two seventh grade students at Oak Grove Junior High School spent two weeks collecting a variety of items that they donated to the Public Action to Deliver Shelter program. The students obtained the items by using their own money, doing chores at home to raise money and soliciting individuals and businesses.

John and Elaine Markeli will host a Lube-A-Thon at Pit Pros in Mundelein Sunday in support of the Y-Me Foundation for Breast Cancer Awareness Month.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

Slick fundraiser

Pit Pros offering free oil changes with donation to Y-ME National Breast Cancer Organization

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

Elaine Markeli knows the importance of early detection of breast cancer and the agony of treatment.

The Mundelein business woman, who co-owns Pit Pros along with her husband, John, was diagnosed with stage two breast cancer last year. She completed breast cancer chemotherapy treatments last summer and, so far, is cancer free.

For Mother's Day, Elaine and John will open their doors to raise funds for the Y-ME National Breast Cancer Organization by hosting a Lube-A-Thon at Pit Pros. The facility will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday. Lube, oil and oil filter, a $23.99 value, will be free to patrons giving a donation to Y-ME.

"This is a way to bring attention to the cause of breast cancer," Elaine said, of the first-of-a-kind fundraiser. "One hundred percent of the contributions will go directly to the Y-ME organization."

The Lube-a-thon will coincide with the national "Paint the Town Pink" campaign. This is the third year the Y-ME National Breast Cancer Foundation has worked to raise breast cancer awareness nationwide with the Paint the Town Pink campaign.

Cooperative Extension Service applauds volunteers

Volunteers serving the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service are the foot soldiers of the organization, providing customer service, education and leadership. In 1997, 370 CES volunteers gave more than 18,000 hours toward the CES mission, "helping you put knowledge to work." Master gardener volunteers give gardening advice; 4-H leaders support the efforts of the 4-H youth program; and the Earth Flag Team implement recycling programs in Lake County schools. "Many of the volunteers are working people who skillfully manage their time because they want to give something back through CES," commented Nancy Johannsen, CES Unit Assistant and Volunteer Manager. "They bring with them a wide range of skills and knowledge which enhance and increase the outreach of our programs."

The efforts of the volunteers were highlighted at a special dinner/recognition held at the Country Squire Restaurant in Grayslake. Honored guests included 13 volunteers who have given from 20-57 years of service to the Cooperative Extension Service. Florence Magnuson, Fox Lake; Dorothy Rodewald, Wauconda; Arletta Rieser, Grayslake and Jessie Faraone, Waukegan were honored for the 110 combined years of service they have provided. These women have been affiliated with the Lake County Association for Home and Community Education, a CES partner for 60 years. Volunteer members receive training on a variety of non-technical subjects from the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service Educators and re-teach the material to members of their local units. "Program titles have shifted from home arts related topics such as food preservation, sewing/tailoring, and glove making offered in the 1930s, 40s and 50s to those with a focus on family communication, the environment and health," commented Johannsen.

The 4-H youth program serves youth from all backgrounds and interests. There are 20 Lake County community clubs with five or more people ranging in age from 8 to 18. The clubs are guided by adult leaders, most of whom are parents of the children. An extraordinary group of 4-H volunteers were recognized for their combined 167 years of service. "In fact, their children have long since graduated from the program and in some cases are helping as leaders themselves, as is the case with Lana and Jane Keroson (Antioch)," commented Susie Soukup, Youth Development Educator. Other leaders being recognized included Carolyn VanPatten, Antioch; Betty Wertke, Volo; Dorothy Sedluskas, Lake Villa; Betty Ogden, Antioch; and Theresa Kotty, Mundelein. Adult leaders assist members with projects; promote public speaking skills; nurture leadership development and encourage 4-H families to work together on community service projects.

Master gardeners, Mary Ellen Keegan, Mundelein and Jim Harrer of Barrington were honored for their continuing efforts with the Master Gardener program. They are part of a 75-member team of volunteers who serve as Master Gardeners to assist the public with answers to home horticulture questions. "The volunteers in this program receive 60 hours of training in horticulture topics from CES. In return, they volunteer time answering questions at area Farmer's Markets or at the CES office and they are also prepared to give gardening presentations to community groups," commented Sharon Yiesla, CES Horticulturist and team volunteer manager.

A special presentation and recognition for 30 years of service was given to Irene Seeberg, Gurnee for her leadership role with the CES Building Association. Farm Bureau President Tom Doolittle praised Irene for her tireless efforts in attending to building maintenance/repair and numerous expansions over three decades.

Other volunteers were recognized for their efforts in seeking resources to support the CES mission; to the Earth Flag Team for waste reduction efforts in 57 Lake County schools; for CES Council members who guide, propose and implement CES programs; and for volunteers who routinely assist with the maintenance of the CES office and library.

National Volunteer Week was first observed in 1974, and is marked each year by a special message from the President. The celebration is sponsored by the Points of Light Foundation, a non-profit group that encourages citizen involvement.

Additional information about CES can be found on the World Wide Web at: <http://www.aces.uiuc.edu/~up-link/>.

Low interest housing loans offered in Lake County

There is a special housing plan system being offered to the people of Lake County.

A rehab program, offered by the Affordable Housing Corporation, is offering low interest loans to homeowners in Lake County to make home repairs.

Financial institutions in Lake County, which include First Chicago, First Midwest Bank, First Of America, Northern Trust Bank and many others, are offering between $50,000 to $200,000 loans for qualified applicants.

The money is designed for people who are currently living in homes with health and safety code violations because they can't afford the necessary repairs.

For more information on the loans, please contact William Griffin, president of the Affordable Housing Corporation of Lake County, at 3701 W. Grand Avenue, Suite H in Gurnee.

LIBRARIES: Data corruption could affect patrons across county

quested an inter-library loan, but busier libraries have become backed up and don't have time to handle these calls. They've now resorted to faxing requests. Patrons then have to wait until the other library finds time to respond.

"Basically the reason for a library to serve their taxpayers first and others when it's convenient," Thomas explained.

"The possibility of a lawsuit has been addressed," according to Thomas.

Shurman said they can't explain exactly what went wrong at this point because they don't know.

He said Geac told him they've had one or two other systems with this problem. He typified this as a rare, freakish combination of circumstances.

"Yes the data loss is severe and possible but still is only a scenario. It's not a given yet that it's going to be a radical loss," he stated.

When asked how something like this happened he responded "I don't want to say something that assigns the blame because this could end up in court."

No one is saying how much the ultimate cost will be if the libraries have to restore their databases. Shurman noted, in a fact sheet on the incident, the construction of the database has involved millions of dollars of expense.

In a May 1st, memo to administrators, Shurman explained, "...If we lose our database, we must make this as painful for Geac as we can. Nobody should benefit from the existence of a product that can create this much jeopardy..."

He went on to say an exclusion in the CCS maintenance agreement with Geac allows them to pursue additional recourse if data files are damaged.

SLICK: Fundraiser gets help for breast cancer research

"I want to make people more aware of the need for early detection of breast cancer," Elaine said. "Last year, 44,000 women died of breast cancer, many of them didn't have too. With early detection, breast cancer can be treated."

Elaine said having the fundraiser at the business draws attention to the need for further research.

"Many of our customers saw me last year without hair, they know what I have gone through, I want to keep other women from having that experience," Elaine said.

"We have been very blessed with the support of many local businesses and our suppliers," said John. "I can't believe how many people have been willing to help out."

Valvoline Oil is supplying the oil and filters free to support this effort. A local attorney has donated a house closing, which will be auctioned and several other local businesses have donated items to be used in prize drawings.

"The support of the community has been overwhelming," said Elaine, who also works as a Coldwell Banker real estate agent. "Associates in my office are helping out, people around town have donated prizes and services, we are really touched with the response. Several people have offered cash donations to the Y-ME foundation."

The Sunday event will include snacks and prize drawings.

"I just want to raise awareness and help fight this disease," Elaine said.

Pit Pros is located at 305 Townline Road at the corner of Rte. 60 and 83.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Lawsuit filed against theme park

Gurnee—Additional families whose members were riders on the Demon roller coaster which malfunctioned last month may join a lawsuit filed against the theme park.

"We have been in contact with a number of other people and they may join the lawsuit. It is not known if they will file separately or with our suit," Kenneth Allen, an Indiana attorney, said.

Allen represents the Wesley Proffer family. The families children were on the roller coaster which stopped in midair, causing a rescue of its 23 passengers.

"Their general opinion of the park is they did something that put the health and lives of 23 people at risk. Just because no one died, does not mean they should not be held accountable," Allen said. "What they did was knowingly reckless."

Proffer, of Lake Station, Ind., was part of a private firm which bought out the park, U.S. Steele. The lawsuit against the theme park was filed in federal court in Chicago. No hearing has yet been set.

Cell tower ban approved

Wauconda—Before any more telecommunications companies make requests to build towers in Wauconda, officials want to make sure they have their regulations in place. A six-month moratorium against the wireless or tower location or construction expired May 5, without much notice.

"There's nobody knocking on the door wanting to put one up," said Rudolph F. Magna, village attorney. He suggested, and the board unanimously approved, a resolution extending the moratorium 120 days, to Sept. 8, a night when the board will meet.

Trustees approved the original moratorium to give the village time to come up with the appropriate regulatory measures to have in place if and when any telecommunications firms make requests.

McDonald's backs out of deal

Mundelein—Plans to build a third McDonald's Restaurant in Mundelein are dead. McDonald's was to build a restaurant in the southern portion of town on 2.9 acres just south of Route 45 on the east side of Route 83 as part of a development project of Jim Best of unincorporated Grayslake.

On Monday, May 4, board members learned the company lost interest in serving up Big Macs and McRib sandwiches at that location. A McDonald's representative said the decision was based on several issues, including site characteristics, franchise characteristics and McDonald's own characteristics.

Village officials were not pleased with the announcement, as the restaurant was supposed to have started construction in February, following four years of meetings, man-hours and expenses on the behalf of Mundelein, which approved a developers agreement for the project last November.

Norton: work release, probation

Libertyville—Kenneth Norton, the former assistant fire chief for the Village of Libertyville, was sentenced to three years probation, with 12 months periodic imprisonment, for his April conviction on reckless homicide charges.

Norton, 42, of Grayslake, was convicted of reckless homicide in the July 1996 death of Grayslake bicyclist Mark Capistrant after a jury deliberated over 15 hours in April.

Judge Stephen Walter dismissed two motions, filed on Tuesday by Norton's attorney Thomas Briscoe, to have the verdict thrown out and grant a retrial.

Walter said Norton's lack of previous criminal offenses, his years of public service and the tremendous amount of remorse he had shown throughout the trial, figured heavily in his sentence.

Norton, who resigned from his job as assistant chief on Monday, publicly apologized to the Capistrant family prior to Walter's sentence.

"First and foremost, I'd like to apologize to Mrs. Capistrant, her family and friends," said Norton through tears. "I wish there was something I could do or say to ease their pain."

PEG Group forum to change ACHS

Antioch—Something nationally unique is happening with the educational change process of Antioch Community High School.

Ongoing discussions about the future of education at ACHS receive more community input than do similar conversations throughout the United States.

As a result, Antioch community and school representatives remain confident that the Partnership for Educational Growth, PEG, is a positive forum in which to discuss the future of District 117 education needs and change.

These are two conclusions supported by comments of five PEG group members who attended a mid-March Colorado Springs, Colo. conference sponsored by the National Education Association. The conference was titled "The Challenge of Change—Designing our Own Solutions."

Topics of discussion at the conference focused on collaboration and cooperation strategies useful for working together for school improvement.

PEG also voted to extend a two-day invitation to James Carter to come to Antioch. He is a systems analyst that members met at the conference. PEG members will learn from him how to describe the operational patterns of a school district. PEG members will consider how school districts may achieve or not achieve goals as a result of those systems. It is expected the sessions will help them understand the local school system better.

PM&L "Crimes" opens May 15

Antioch—PM&L Theater opens "Crimes of the Heart" May 15 for nine performances over three weekends.

"It has heart, wit, and surprisingly zanny passion that must carry all before it," said Theater Critic Clive Barnes of the New York Post. "It would certainly be a crime for anyone interested in theater not to see this play."

The play is presented May 15, 16, 22, 23, 29, and 30 at 8 p.m. and May 17, 24, and 31 at 2:30 p.m.

Reservations can be made by calling 847-395-3055. Tickets also are available at the box office at Orchard and Main Streets in downtown Antioch. Box office hours are Monday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and 90 minutes before curtain time on performance dates.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for students and senior citizens.

Village enjoys crime rate drop again

Libertyville—The village of Libertyville can enjoy another drop in the crime rate over the last year.

The crime rate for 1997 dropped by 6.6 percent, with 2,068 criminal incidents being reported last year as opposed to 2,215 incidents in 1996. The rate dropped 10 percent between the years 1995 and 1996.

Libertyville police chief Pat Carey said that while he is encouraged by the numbers, he doesn't believe the numbers indicate a trend.

"The small drop does not indicate a trend you can hang your hat on," said Carey. "But it's certainly an overall trend most communities in Illinois can enjoy."

In Lake County alone the crime rate dropped around 10 percent over the last year.

Allendale accreditation renewed

Lake Villa—The Allendale Association, of Lake Villa, has achieved accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations.

"We seek accreditation for our organization because we want it to be the best, and we view obtaining Joint Commission accreditation as another step toward excellence," said Mary Shahbazian, president of The Allendale Association.

Darlene Sweeney, Executive Director of Quality Improvement at Allendale, said, "We are also accredited by the Council on Accreditation of Services for Families and Children." Sweeney said that a team of evaluators from that organization will be at Allendale in September to evaluate their program.

Formed in 1951, the independent, not-for-profit Joint Commission seeks to improve the quality of the nation's health care through voluntary accreditation. The evaluation process is intended to support performance improvement in health care organizations.

"In becoming accredited, Allendale was evaluated against a set of national standards by a Joint Commission surveyor experienced in the delivery of behavioral health care services," said Dr. Mary Cesare-Murphy, executive director of Behavioral Health Care Program of the Joint Commission. "Achieving accreditation demonstrates Allendale's commitment to provide high quality care to its clients."

Wadsworth forms growth committee

Wadsworth—Wadsworth is taking steps to get a handle on village growth with the creation of the Wadsworth comprehensive committee.

The committee will include residents, planning commission members and trustees among others. The newly elected chairperson is Suzanne Zupec.

The comprehensive plan committee is set to meet the second and fourth Monday of every month at 7:00 p.m. at the Village Hall.

DUI Project 98 shows consequence

Wadsworth—On May 1 the public witnessed DUI 98, a graphic reenactment of a drunk driving accident, hosted by the Newport township and the Quadrant One North fire fighters.

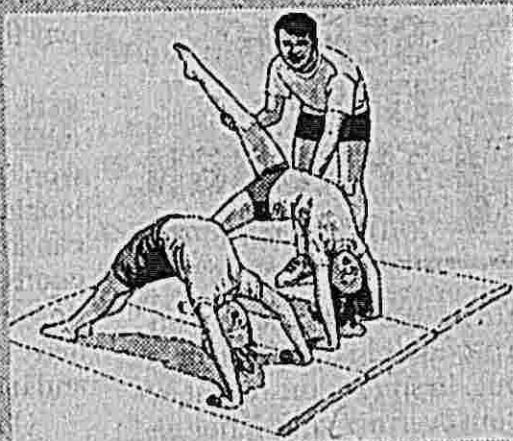

Every week in more populated areas, paramedics and firemen cut teenagers and adults alike from the crumpled metal mass that used to be their car. According to Newport Fire Department personnel, more than half the car wrecks they respond to are alcohol related.

Gulf War veterans deserve our respect

As Memorial Day draws near, it is timely to remind all citizens of our nation that the cost of freedom has not come lightly. Veterans of World War II, who so gallantly served in defense of democracy, have long been recognized for their heroic and selfless actions.

Vietnam veterans finally began receiving due respect from the nation in the past decade, as wounds of the war, have slowly healed and service in the nation's most controversial conflict, finally lost its stigma.

Today, there is a new veteran among us, one that has received little recognition—the Gulf War Veteran.

The Gulf War was not a conflict in which America suffered great loss in terms of human lives, but it was a war of great significance to the American people and their future.

It is of great significance, because military experience in the Gulf War is being used to determine how America responds to crisis today, and how it plans to respond in the future.

The Gulf War was the first time the nation mobilized its reserve force in support of armed conflict. It was a theory long-preached, and finally put into practice and for the most part, it was a theory that worked.

The Gulf War came on the heels of the end of the long Cold War and with its end, came the largest draw-down of U.S. troops in American history.

Today, our defense rests in good measure on the shoulders of reservists, men and women we work alongside, day-in and day-out, who happen to also work one weekend a month to train for a call no one wants to get.

For a generation of Americans who grew up sheltered by their parents from the harsh images of a the Vietnam War, the Gulf War was their generation's call to arms; their generation's opportunity to defend their nation. And they defended it, in the spirit of their forefathers in Valley Forge and Normandy—with dignity, with honor and with courage.

The Village of Round Lake with the generosity of the Grieve Corporation is constructing a Veteran's Memorial Park to honor all American veterans. It is a project for which they should be highly commended.

A sculpture in the park will only pay homage to veterans of the major conflicts in which U.S. troops have served. Space is a limiting factor on the sculpture.

While certainly not all of America's battles can be named on the marker, perhaps the village, which lays in the shadow of the nation's largest Navy base, could reconsider a line for the veterans of the Gulf War.

They are our sons and daughters, who remain on call to defend their nation as each generation has done before them. They deserve our respect.

Volunteers pave way for cleaner, safer Chain

Volunteers working both above and below the water are destined to make Saturday, June 6, a landmark for citizen involvement in preservation and enhancement of the Chain O' Lakes, one of Lake County's natural wonders that is under constant bombardment from the ravages of urbanization.

Under the leadership of U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 06-11 scores of workers will be mobilized for a massive clean-up effort to remove unsightly and dangerous debris from the shore line and lake bottom. Flotilla Commander Noah Poole said one of the exciting features of the drive will be the services of about a dozen scuba divers who will identify and direct the removal of underwater boating hazards.

Coast Guard Auxiliaries have a four-fold purpose in establishing a one-day clean up blitz: 1. reduction of littering; 2. promotion of water quality; 3. habitat restoration and preservation; 4. paving the way for access to pollution free water for recreation use.

Volunteers and equipment coming together June 6 will be known as "Friends of Inland Waters." Hats off to Flotilla 06-11. We thank them in advance.

VIEWPOINT

More to planting than meets the eye

This is the favorite time of year for Sharon Yiesla, horticulturist with the University of Illinois Lake County Extension office on Rte. 45. The start of a new growing season.

Yiesla is a storehouse of landscaping knowledge. She gets paid by the state to impart her thoughts on home beautification so you can talk to her without fear of getting a bill.

In a pleasant, off-the-cuff manner, Yiesla offers a variety of eye-opening suggestions. Sharon loves plants, but she has no patience for "strugglers." If a plant isn't doing well, pull it out and replace it. Although not a native of Lake County, Yiesla knows that we have a variety of "difficult" soils that are rough on unwary gardeners. Don't let the county's typical tight clays crimp your gardening style, Sharon Yiesla cautions. That's why it's important, especially with perennials, to properly prepare the earth. She'll tell you how.

Front yards are public and back yards are private, Sharon contends, so you approach landscaping from two separate points of view. Keep the front yard uncluttered with plantings exclaiming "welcome," especially around the front door. Do your "thing" in the back, whether the space is for outdoor entertaining, sports or gardening. Bet you never looked at landscape design that way. The best thing about gardening and landscaping is that enjoyment awaits for all ages.

Odd man out?

With the two top guns at Abbott Laboratories stepping down within the next year, directors are moving forward with bold succession planning. They've elected three executive vice presidents to the board, Paul N. Clark, Robert L. Parkinson Jr., and Miles D. White to create a pool of talent for top management experience.

Since Abbott has a tradition of promoting from within, one of the three will succeed Current Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Duane L. Burnham. One will succeed Thomas R. Hodgson, a 26-year Abbott veteran who is getting ready for retirement after eight years as president and chief operating officer.

What's to become of the third veep? As Burnham is careful to point out, "Running Abbott is not a one person job." No, it's a two-man job. Without a doubt, the thought of competition hasn't escaped Clark, Parkinson and White.

Arianna at bat

No one was more thrilled with the acceptance of nationally syndicated columnist Arianna Huffington to headline Friday night's big Republican shebang than Antonietta F. Simonian, the new executive director of the Lake County Republican Federation.

Barely acquainted with her office in Libertyville, Simonian's first major assignment was securing a speaker for the May 8 fund raiser, the county GOP's biggest event of the year. Besides being witty and thought-provoking, Simonian says Huffington will have special appeal to women. "That's going to be especially important this year," Simonian mentioned.

Anniversaries

With the arrival of Ravinia Festival's 1998 program, music lovers are planning their dates and ordering tickets. This year's lineup abounds with special anniversaries including the 20th for music director Christoph Eschenbach and the 20th season for Erich Kunzel, the pops prince. Ravinia's first jazz concert featured Benny Goodman in 1938. "A Salute to Benny Goodman" kicks off the jazz series June 25-28. Four dates have been earmarked to celebrate the Gershwin centennial, June 15, August 15, 22 and 27.

Consumers must demand 'Made in USA'

It looks as though we will come to the day when the only thing that will be made in the USA will be the dollar bill. When that happens, the value of the dollar bill will shrink too, to pennies.

Not too many years ago, state legislatures across the country were promoting "BUY AMERICAN" legislation. It started to catch on with businesses who knew that most Americans were aware that "BUY AMERICAN" was good for America.

They say that money is the root of all evil, so it should come as no surprise to us that the trend to manufacture products in the USA wouldn't last long. In spite of the recent exposures about overseas child labor being used to make goods for American companies, the lure of cheap labor continues and Americans will pay the price for such greed.

You want to have some fun—sad as it is? Go to your favorite shopping mall. Take your pick, because it won't make any difference. Start looking at all of the labels that you can find out where the particular goods were manufactured. It is getting difficult to find products made here, isn't it? That should make you, and us, mad.

Oh, while you were at it, you

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AFL-CIO denounces former 'chamber' chief

Recent articles in several local newspapers have focused on the former leader of a supposed area union under investigation for wrongdoing by U.S. Secretary of Labor Alexis M. Herman. In a suit filed in U.S. Bankruptcy Court, the Labor Secretary said her office had uncovered evidence that Charles C. Isely III, was president and treasurer of the International Employee Welfare Union, (which he founded) illegally diverted funds from (his) union accounts to himself.

As a union member, and as president of the Lake County AFL-CIO, I have to tell you that this entire scandal stinks, and for several reasons. Firstly, the International Employee Welfare Union bears resemblance to a legitimate union in name only. Charles Isely is (or was) also president of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce. In that capacity, Mr. Isely has consistently served the desires of business and, in fact, has regularly lobbied for legislation beneficial to business interests. While I'm certainly not anti-business, I can tell you that Mr. Isely is NOT a friend of working men and women.

Charles Isely's "union" was created solely by himself to provide health and life insurance benefits to businesses at group rates. Mr. Isely has allegedly stolen from his own "creation" to sustain his financial woes, and the public has been told that he is a union leader. Once again the media has portrayed unions as evil and their leaders as thieves. Nothing, of course, could be further from the truth.

Unions exist to protect working men and women from unscrupulous employers and people like Charles Isely III. Unions have fought for progressive social legislation that benefits ALL of society, not just their own members. Certainly, unions have had to endure the embarrassment of occasional improprieties from some of its leaders. But so, in fact, has corporate America and even the clergy. No group is exempt from people like Isely.

Mr. Isely has been ousted from his position as president/treasurer (owner) of the International Employee Welfare Union AND from his position as president of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce. Hooray for both groups. He deserves the U.S. Department of Labor breathing down his neck.

In my eyes, the International Employee Welfare Union is not a legitimate union. It is NOT recognized by the AFL-CIO locally, statewide or nationally. Mr. Isely's actions have poisoned the minds of the public towards unions. Charles Isely III is NOT a union leader, he is a self-serving business man.

Referendum only fair

The vote at the annual Warren Township meeting was not necessary in order to launch into the construction of the proposed town hall. Since the supervisor and board assert that this is a budget management issue, then the vote of the citizens was superfluous. However, since there was limited public discussion about this project we still need to understand a few things:

- The supervisor has frequently complained about the lack of funds and finds more than $300,000 per year to service a debt for a largely undisclosed project. It seems difficult to believe that this capability was only discovered in an audit completed in the weeks before.

- No consideration appears to have been given to the senior and youth programs that are being offered at the numerous new churches in the area which would demonstrate new increased service capabilities hitherto untapped.

- The senior citizens who use the current facilities received sufficient notice of the "vote" while only 11 days notice were given the rest of the citizens.

- No attempt was made to educate the general Warren township population about the need or scope of the project.

- No discussion about how staffing will be affected or how the increased programming costs will be reconciled.

- No consideration of how long it will take to catch up on the deferred maintenance at the township facilities.

- The large building and support facilities reduce the open space available at the township grounds while a campaign to start an open space district is underway.

A township wide referendum is the only fair way to assess the voter's sentiment. All we can do now is to watch to see if the promised caps of 5 percent interest and $1.8 million are maintained. If they are not, we will be in the market for new township officials during the next election cycle.

Slide over a bit, Daniel J. Travanti

Erma Bombeck was telling another humor writer, Art Buchwald, about her back problems, the severe pain and surgery she had endured.

"Can you get a column out of it?" Buchwald asked. "If you can get a column out of it, it's worth it."

That's how every writer feels, especially yours truly. Something neat happened to me last Saturday and I can get a column out of it. I'm a bit leery because it might sound vain-glorious, but my trusted advisers tell me I should do it anyway.

I was inducted into the Kenosha High School Sports Hall of Fame, joining, among others, actor Daniel J. Travanti of "Hill Street Blues" fame.

In high school and college a half-century ago, from 1945 to 1951, I was a high jumper in the sport of track and field. The selection committee apparently looked back in time and noticed I was history.

The Kenosha fame hall leans toward athletes who went on to college and/or professional sports.

Travanti was a terrific running back on Kenosha's 1957 and 1958 football teams. I was a sports writer then and covered all of his games. He was offered college scholarships but skipped that route and breezed through the University of Wisconsin in three years, studying theater and acting.

When Travanti was selected for our hometown hall of fame in 1986, while in his seven-year television stint as Captain Frank Furillo in "Hill Street Blues," he flew in from California. Kenosha went bonkers over him, never mind that he didn't pursue football beyond high school. He was a superstar.

The annual Kenosha fame fete was started 15 years ago; obviously, my name didn't immediately leap to anyone's mind. Some of my old football friends, however, deservedly were "sure things" because they had gone on to college and professional heights: Alan "The Horse" Ameche of the Baltimore Colts, Ken Huxhold of the Philadelphia Eagles, Tom Bratz of the Washington Redskins and Tom Blenemann of the old Chicago Cardinals.

Last Saturday, I recalled how Ameche, as a boy, would come over to my yard to shoot baskets. The world has been unaware of this, but I taught that great football player everything he knew... about basketball.

The banquet was a classy affair. Strolling violinists (the Tremper High School Golden Strings) provided lively and lovely music during dinner. Seven really outstanding athletes of more recent vintage were inducted in the fame hall, and four neat, bright high school seniors were awarded college scholarships. Despite all the depressing things we read in the news, our nation is still turning out a lot of terrific young people.

Bashful as I am about public speaking, I was as nervous as a long-tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs. I guess I got through my short acceptance speech okay, except that I forgot to get in my best line:

As the comedian Jack Benny once said upon receiving some honor, "I may not deserve this award, but I have arthritis and I don't deserve that either."

SEEING: Save American jobs

might have looked at the labels telling you the price of the goods. That's if they don't try to hide it by using the "scanning" label—which could be the subject of a separate article about greed and fraud. The issue is that cheap labor seems to be the object for making products beyond our borders, but price seems to be no object when it comes to selling those products to American consumers.

About a month ago, I read that the United States Federal Trade Commission, influenced by strong support from consumer advocate groups, strengthened its position that "Made in USA" should really mean "Made in the USA."

What some of the greedy manufacturers were looking for was a scheme to put the Made in USA label on a product if the materials came from abroad but were assembled here. So, if you purchased a sweater, they could "pull the wool over your eyes" by having the Made in USA label if the buttons were sewed on in America. And we are supposed to trust con artists like that?

When these jobs keep disappearing, there will come the time when American consumers will lose their purchasing power. That is why I opposed the NAFTA agreement, and I am told that it's not working as well as its proponents had envisioned. As long as the economy stays strong, I guess Americans aren't getting excited about the many jobs that we are losing because so many products are no longer manufactured in America. The good times aren't going to roll, forever, though, so I believe that it's time that all of us wake up and tell American leaders and "Big Business" that we want more products manufactured here in America.

Now that the Federal Trade Commission has ruled in "our" favor, the next step is up to us. We must speak out. We must show in strong terms that we are mad as hell that the Made in USA label is outnumbered by at least 20 to 1 in stores where we shop. When enough Americans get excited about something that is wrong and eventually concerns the well-being of their families, things usually happen.

It's time that legislators again speak out about the need for more Made in the USA products. Instead of pointing political fingers at each other trying to see who can put more blame on whom, here is an issue that they can all join hands and work together on. Who can be against "BUY AMERICAN?"

Before you answer that last question with "NOBODY," let me remind you that it was far from unanimous when we passed Buy American legislation a few years back. Labor unions and small business did join hands, but not "big business."

The MADE IN THE USA, is a proud label. Let's keep it that way. It must not be cheapened by greedy conglomerates who want to take advantage of its worthiness but not live up to its full meaning.

Lastly—and most importantly. Let's see more "MADE IN THE USA" labels in the USA. It's our stake in the future.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Finding the profit in your business

Several months ago I had the opportunity to do some work for a major hotel chain, in preparation for that speaking engagement, I interviewed more than 100 high-volume travelers to find the key factors that comprised a good night's stay in a hotel or motel.

This research represented nearly 4,000 night's stays in 26 states and Canada, in rooms, varying in cost from $32 to $275 per night. The survey included corporate presidents and CEO's, business owners, middle managers, sales representatives, housewives, writers, publishers, retirees, and government employees. They all had one thing in common: They were customers who wanted a good night's sleep.

For hotels and motels, these frequent travelers represent future profits. Satisfied customers return, and also use other hotels in the chain based on good experiences. Higher occupancy rates mean higher profits. Here are some of the factors that drive customer satisfaction.

Ten Key Factors

- Cleanliness. This was the most mentioned factor and the one which respondents were most adamant about. One person said, "I judge the whole chain by how clean the bathroom is." Another commented, "I've changed hotels because of filthy rooms."

- Quiet restful environment. People don't like noise when they are trying to sleep. These guests wanted better sound deadening in the walls and doors. Others complained about loud heating and air conditioning units, traffic, planes and parties.

- Everything works. Guests wanted well-maintained facilities. No dripping faucets, running commodes or non-functioning lights. Televisions, remote controls and heating and air conditioning units should work properly.

- Getting what you ordered. If you reserved a single, non-smoking, poolside room at a rate of $79, that is exactly what you should get. Especially, if you have to guarantee the room with your credit card.

- Friendly faces. Sixty-eight percent of the respondents listed attitudes, courtesy and friendly service in their top five answers. One said, "Assume I've had a hard day and treat me kindly."

- User friendly rooms. Guests wanted good lighting, comfortable chairs and a good work table or desk. They didn't want to sit on the bed or kneel to use the phone. They also mentioned towels you can reach from the shower, convenient electrical outlets and irons and ironing boards in the room.

- Safe, secure environment. Nearly every woman surveyed mentioned safety; in her top answers. They wanted good lighting, no "hidden areas," secure doors with deadbolts and chains and discreet use of room numbers.

- Quick service. Guests wanted employees who anticipate their needs. One told this story, "A bellman watched me drag and carry my bags across the parking lot in the rain. When I got near the door under the canopy, he offered to help. I gave him an icy stare and said I'd rather drag it myself."

Anchor Bank opens second facility in Super Kmart

Bank offers shoppers the convenience of seven day a week banking

Anchor Bank brought traditional, community banking to a non-traditional setting on March 16 when it opened its second location inside of the Super Kmart on Rollins Road in Round Lake Beach.

In-store banking facilities have become very popular in the past few years. They offer shoppers the convenience of seven day a week banking and the opportunity to shop and bank at the same time. The Super Kmart is unique in that it offers a grocery store, traditional discount store, hair care salon, photography studio, pharmacy, car care center and food court all under one roof. Anchor Bank's opening is the final touch in one-stop shopping.

John Burnett, president and CEO of Anchor Bank exclaims, "We are very excited about this new facility. It is the first step in our expansion plans for Lake County, and it is geographically located in an area that we wanted to be in."

Cindy McFarlane, the new branch manager adds, "This new Anchor facility is not a traditional brick and mortar facility, but it is a full-service, community bank. We are here to provide the surrounding communities with the friendly, personal service that the original Anchor Bank has become known for."

While the bank is traditional in its service offering and its commitment to the community, it is not necessarily traditional in its approach to doing business.

At Anchor Bank inside of Super Kmart you're likely to see some things that you'll never see inside a traditional banking institution. Don't be surprised to see one of our sales associates helping you find things in the Super Kmart aisles or asking you to enter one of our bi-weekly contests. You might even see our bankers wearing an apron, passing out food samples, bagging your groceries or dressed like a clown passing out balloons. These same associates stand ready to do your teller transactions, open a new account, help you with your loan needs, or answer your questions about the large variety of products that the bank has to offer. No matter what the day of the week, Anchor Bank will always have something special to offer its Super Kmart customers.

The new branch inside of Anchor is open seven days a week for your banking convenience and is kicking off their grand opening on May 1. From May 1 through May 16, Anchor Bank is offering shoppers an opportunity to win a $500 Super Kmart shopping spree as well as dozens of other prizes. They will also be offering super in-bank specials. Look for special checking offers, super CD rates, discounted loan rates and more. Anchor Bank will also make a return to true traditional banking by awarding gifts with accounts opened with $400 plus balances.

Anchor Bank is an independent, locally owned and operated bank. Its holding company, Lakes Region Bank Corp., is comprised of a group of primarily local and Lake County investors dedicated to preserving traditional community banking throughout northern Lake County.

Computer system assists buyers at Tiffany Farms

A new, state-of-the-art computer system assists buyers in their home buying process at Tiffany Farms, a community of 414 single-family homes in north suburban Antioch.

"This new computer system, called 'computer-for-tracks,' is a smart, efficient way for our sales people to assist home buyers in their purchasing process," said Laurie Bulson, vice president of marketing for Rolling Meadows-based United Homes, the builder.

Computer-for-tracks, a California-based program, helps sales associates determine financing, mortgage options and payment plans for home buyers.

"With our computerized sales office at Tiffany Farms, buyers are able to run through different scenarios with the sales managers, basically calculating how much their monthly payments would be on a particular home with various options and upgrades.

"This system is much quicker and easier than manually running numbers and figuring out payment plans—it's much more professional," said sales manager Shirley Roach.

Roach noted that computer-for-tracks includes an itemized list of options from which buyers can choose. "When we sit down and begin to discuss numbers with buyers, they can simply select the home they would like to purchase and start adding options," she said.

"Buyers can append any options to their home and within seconds they are able to determine their home and within seconds they are able to determine their monthly costs," Roach said. "If the payments are not exactly what they are looking for, they can try other options."

"We already have seen how helpful computer-for-tracks has been in its first month. It makes the home buying process a little easier for everyone," said Bulson.

The homes at Tiffany Farms are being built on 260 acres of land between Tiffany Road and North Avenue in Antioch.

Base priced from $135,400 to $181,900, seven home designs at the community feature 2 to 4 bedrooms, 1 to 2 1/2 baths and 1,184 to 2,264 square feet of living space. Three way (Interstate 94)—are minutes away. Commuters who work in Chicago's Loop also can catch the Metra train in Antioch.

All of the homes at Tiffany Farms have an attached 2-car garage, fully sodded homesite, easy-care no-wax tile flooring in entry foyer, kitchen and bath, wall-to-wall carpeting, smoke detectors and a decorative insulated steel front door.

A double staircase, decorator light fixtures, eat-in kitchen, formal dining room and family room are available per plan.

Also, gas-forced air heating, optional washer/dryer hookup, energy conserving R-13 wall and R-30 ceiling insulation and 40-gallon automatic water heater.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Don't be fixed only on ratings

Americans can find ratings just about everywhere. Consumer magazines rate everything from cars to coffee makers, industry publications rate hotels and airlines, critics rate movies, and market research companies rate TV shows.

Mutual funds are another contestant in the rating game. Although mutual fund ratings can be helpful in making intelligent investing decisions, they should not be your only source of research.

At a recent industry symposium, a panel of experts from the major research services agreed that too many mutual fund choices and too much data about them have created a situation in which some investors rely too heavily on ratings to make decisions. The panel recommended that investors need to go beyond ratings, to the fundamental research that supports them.

Information at low or no cost no longer gives you a competitive advantage. Investors should be able to effectively interpret important new developments and identify how they affect their financial strategies.

Yet panelists agreed that investors are not willing to give up the quick-and-easy ratings fix. To help investors overcome this tendency, the panel offered five steps to combine ratings with fundamental research.

1. Don't stop at the ratings. Don Phillips, president of Morningstar Research, one of the most commonly used ratings firms, warned against the assumption that "the rating alone is a seal of approval by the research firm." The star rating used by Morningstar is a first step, not a conclusion. Phillips emphasized that Morningstar is a research firm, not a financial planner.

2. Go beyond past performance. Ratings are a benchmark based on a fund's historical performance — not a prediction of future performance. Phillips says, "The star system was never intended to be a surrogate for exercising judgment."

3. Be willing to consider funds with low rating. Steve Savage, executive director of Value Line Mutual Fund Research, says that low ratings may simply be a function of cyclical weakness in the fund's investment area. It would be foolish to rule out an entire asset class based on ratings.

4. Don't forget your financial professional. Skilled investment representatives can sift through a mass of information. They typically have access to information from the major rating firms as well as their own firm's research.

5. Try the Internet. More investors are turning to the Web's power to monitor their portfolios. They search for performance figures as well as in-depth research.

When it comes to choosing good investments, you can't be too careful. The more you know, the better your chances of picking a winner.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

Back in April I started a job with the (name withheld) company. It was a job I liked, and started to make friends almost immediately. On my third week with the company, a friend of mine out of state became ill and I offered to go and help care for her. I told the company that I needed a leave of absence for personal reasons and they told me to give them a call when I got back in town. Well, I returned 6 weeks later and contacted them informing them that I was ready to come back to work. They responded by telling me that I no longer had a job with them. They told me to call when I returned and now will not give me my job back. They claim that I walked off and abandoned my job after 13 days of employment. They have also informed me that I am ineligible for Unemployment Compensation. I thought that a company had to comply with the new law stating that an employee is eligible for leave of absence to care for a sick person or newborn. What's the story? H.V. Libertyville

Dear H.V.:

Unfortunately for you, your former employer is 100% correct in his actions. The words "call us when you get back in town", do not translate into, "your job is here for you when you return." He has a business to run with or without you. Leaving your employment to care for a sick friend was strictly your decision and holds nothing in your favor after 13 days of employment. One is not eligible for unemployment benefits in this situation either. Let me help set the laws on medical leave straight and get you back on the road to employment.

Businesses within the U.S. who employ 50 or more persons must provide up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave if the following situations occur. 1: The birth of an employee's child, or the placement of a child within the employee's home either foster or adopted. 2: To take care of ones self, spouse, parent or child with serious health condition. Keep in mind that an employer must guarantee the employee to return to a position equivalent to the one they had before the leave. There are criteria however, for an employee to be eligible for this "leave", they must be employed with the company for no less than 12 months and have worked a minimum of 1250 hours before the "leave" takes place. While this law is scheduled to go into effect, there are provisions which may yet be made to strengthen the employer's ability to regulate this. The Family & Medical Leave Act of 1993 is what it is referred to, and is scheduled to go into effect on August 5, 1993, and specific rules will be announced on that date.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

THE HARE

The Hare was designed with a certain flair for elegance on the exterior and comfort with usable space on the inside. The porch area has high pillars that form the raised roof line and give the entrance the look of a colonial southern home. The garage area extends to the front with a side entrance for access to the backyard.

The interior of the Hare is 1,620 square feet. Ideal for a family with children or the couple whose children have left the home. There is an entry area with a bench for taking off wet coats or muddy boots. Once inside the home, the area is open and visitors look directly into the Great Room. This room is expansive for the family to enjoy. It combines the family room, dining room, and the living room into one large area. There is a fireplace in the corner, and french doors that open onto a covered deck area in the rear.

The kitchen, large and spacious, would accommodate more than one cook at a time and still allow easy preparation of the meal. It is one of those rooms that has numerous cabinets, large counter space, and an eating bar for informal eating. The pantry is angular, allowing more than ample storage area and ease of entry.

Directly off the kitchen is the utility room. For convenience, the linen closet has been placed on the opposite wall, excellently located for putting away clean linen and getting out linen for the bedrooms.

The two bedrooms are located on the opposite side of the home from the master suite. They both are bright and spacious with large wall closets and each have access to a full bath. There is also a small linen closet in between the two rooms for towel and sheet storage.

The master suite, located to the right of the entry, has a walk-in closet and a full bath. The window, which looks out the front of the home, supplies the room with plenty of light.

The Hare is a great beginning or ending home. It has many amenities that lend themselves to new families or empty nesters.

For a study kit of the HARE (406-12LP60) send $14.95, to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a Dream Home plan book featuring our most popular home plans, send $7.95, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Ask The Vet

Ask The Vet-Dr. David Trask is part of a group of northern Lake County veterinarians who pooled their money and expertise to start All Creatures Emergency Hospital in Grayslake providing emergency care to pets nights, weekends and holidays. During the day he can be reached at Lindenhurst Animal Hospital.

Question: Why does my veterinarian insist on heartworm testing and heartworm preventative if my dog only goes outside to go to the bathroom?

Answer: Heartworm disease is transmitted through mosquitoes. So just as you may be bitten watching TV or going out to the mail box, your pet may be, also. Heartworm is very prominent in this area, due to all of the beautiful lakes and wetlands, which are prime mosquito breeding areas. We are even beginning to find cats that are positive for the disease! Treatment for the disease is not only expensive, but very hard on your pet. Even though there is a very high success rate with the treatment, a small percentage of patients with heartworm disease can not be saved. With an annual test and monthly heartworm pill, you and your pet may avoid this problem. The chewy treats that you give your pet monthly to prevent this disease are relatively inexpensive. The reason your DVM insists on a test is because there is no other way to know if your pet has heartworm until it is too late, and permanent damage has been done to their heart and/or lungs. Also, before your DVM can prescribe heartworm preventative, there must be a negative blood test or the preventative could cause serious problems for your pet. By the way, mosquitoes can bite on the nose, ear tips and lips of long haired dogs, so all that hair is no protection against heartworm disease.
